

210: Three Bell. Sail plan: Redrawn from builder's sail plan at National Maritime Museum.
Reconstruction: Staysails; lower stunsail boom; foot of courses and lower stunsail; chain plates and deadeyes; almost all the braces. An unusual feature of this plan was that the builder had drawn the stunsails with their booms, yards, sheets and tacks in such detail.

211: In this typical example of a watercolour by the Dutch artist J. Spin, the Ironside (1855) is portrayed as a very lofty ship. The sky sails are filled, although the royal masts, and the sky sail poles are long enough to carry moon sails. Scheepvaart Museum, Amsterdam.

partments; the foremost and aftermost compartments drained into the adjacent ones with adjustable cocks. Three boats were carried and the upper deck was of wood. The measurements were 171.0ft by 29.0ft by 16.7ft with tonnages of 649 nm and 730 om.

On her first voyage to Australia, an Adelaide paper said that she was 'the first iron vessel to visit this colony' and commented on her 'steamer-like' bow and 'beautifully clean run'. In the 'tween decks there was space for 250 passengers; further aft her 'cabins were fitted up with oak'. Maximum speed was given as 12½ knots and the best day's run was 273 nautical miles.¹ On a load line length of 161ft-6in, the speed-length ratio works out at .98 for 12½ knots, but to attain a high ratio of 1.25 a speed of 15.98 knots would have been required.

The first owners were Glasgow fleshers (butchers to Sassenach): John Bell held 32 shares, and William and Findlay Bell 16 shares apiece, so that the name of Three Bell's is entirely appropriate. They also owned shares in the wooden ketch Three (1839) in the same proportions. John Bell later held 32 shares in the extreme clipper named after him.

In the early 1850s iron ships were inevitably making history, so that besides the Three Bell's claim being the first iron ship to visit Adelaide, there is also a similar one in respect of Montreal, where she went on her maiden passage, returning to Glasgow in 16 days. In November 1850, she sailed for Adelaide and claimed a fast passage of 86 days from Cape Clear, Ireland, to the Adelaide light ship. She returned to Glasgow via Melbourne and Calcutta and on 24 March 1852 sailed from Glasgow for Melbourne, which she reached 96 days later. On a later Atlantic passage she stood by the sinking steamer San Francisco for a week and rescued over 200 passengers, a feat which was immortalised by Walt Whitman.² The Bell brothers retained ownership until she disappeared from Lloyd's Register about 1851.

The sail plan represented in figure 210 shows a lofty rig with three sky sails. The narrowness of the rig prevents overlap of the yards, except in a single case, but this is fully compensated by a full suit of stunsails, the fore lower stunsail being unusually square. Reconstruction has been restricted to the following outline of the staysails, which have been accordingly drawn dotted; foot of the fore and main courses (the leeches were already drawn); braces; chain plates and deadeyes; and lower stunsail boom. It is unusual to find a builder's plan on which the stunsails and their gear have been so clearly drawn.

Another clipper launched in 1850 was the Stormway, whose design is referred to later in this chapter. With a similar beam to the Three Bell's, the Stormway was 14 feet shorter in length but one foot deeper, and not quite so sharp in the ends. The Three Bell's iron construction permitted a longer, narrower hull and this greater length in turn made a faster speed possible. Most of the iron clippers had a proportion of one beam to length and upwards.

The Merchant Ship in the British Atlantic, 1600-1800 Phillip Reid,2020-04-14 In The Merchant Ship in the British Atlantic 1600 1800 Phillip Reid refutes the long held assumption that merchant ship technology in the British Atlantic during the two centuries of its development was static for all intents and purposes and that whatever incremental changes took place in it were inconsequential to the development of the British Empire and its offshoots Drawing on a unique combination of evidence from both traditional and unconventional sources Phillip Reid shows how merchants shipwrights and mariners used both proven principles and adaptive innovations in hulls rigs and steering systems to manage high physical and financial risks Listen also to the podcast where the author is interviewed about the book for New Books Network and the podcast with Liz Covart for Ben Franklin s World by clicking here

A Boston Schooner in the Royal Navy, 1768-1772 Phillip Reid,2023 Uses rare surviving records including fully intact logbooks to situate the customs enforcement interceptor Sultana within the wider picture of the British Atlantic in this crucial period HONORABLE MENTION 2023 Lyman Book Award for North American Naval History The small Boston built schooner Sultana served as a customs enforcement interceptor on the North American eastern seaboard in the period leading up to the American Declaration of Independence when British taxation of American trade was a hugely contentious issue As a typical workaday British American merchant ship taken into naval service Sultana offers a rare opportunity to understand a technology of paramount importance to this world where records for merchant ships are scarce but where in this case a wealth of information from plan drawings to the fully intact logbooks has survived The book provides a detailed narrative of the ship's activities and reveals the nature of life on board and the day to day business of operating a small sailing ship It explores the technology of the ship and her sailing qualities as revealed by the ship's logs and also by the performance of a modern replica In addition the book situates Sultana's role within the wider picture of the British Atlantic in this crucial period It is thereby both naval microhistory and also Atlantic history for all scholars interested in the formation and development of the British Atlantic world The Mariner's Mirror
