women differently punishing men for public behavior that threatened the peace of their communities and women for private sins that allegedly revealed their spiritual corruption In order to retain their public masculine identity men altered the original mission of Puritanism infusing gender into the construction of religious ideas about public service the creation of the individual and the gendering of separate spheres With these practices Puritans transformed their errand into the wilderness and the normative Puritan became female The Massachusetts Digest Edmund Hatch Bennett,1863 A Half-century of the Unitarian Controversy George Edward Ellis,1857
