qualities of its end products. Leading scholars and professional lexicographers from all over the world and representing all the main traditions and perspectives assess the state of the art in every aspect of research and practice. The book is divided into four parts reflecting the main types of lexicography. Part I looks at synchronic dictionaries: those for the general public, monolingual dictionaries for second language learners and bilingual dictionaries. Part II and III are devoted to the distinctive methodologies and concerns of the historical dictionaries and specialist dictionaries respectively, while chapters in Part IV examine specific topics such as description and prescription, the representation of pronunciation and the practicalities of dictionary production. The book ends with a chronology of the major events in the history of lexicography. It will be a valuable resource for students, scholars and practitioners in the field.

Germanic Standardizations Ana Deumert, Wim Vandenburg, 2003-10-27. This volume presents a comparative socio-historical study of the Germanic standard languages: Afrikaans, Danish, Dutch, English, Faroese, Frisian, German, Icelandic, Low German, Luxemburgish, Norwegian, Scots, Swedish, Yiddish, as well as the Caribbean and Pacific Creole languages. Each of the 16 original chapters systematically discusses central aspects of the standardization process, including dialect selection, codification, elaboration and diffusion of the standard norm across the speech community, as well as incipient processes of de-standardization and re-standardization. The strongly comparative orientation of the contributions allows for the identification of broad similarities as well as intriguing differences across a wide range of historically and socially diverse language histories. Two chapters by the editors provide an overview of the theoretical background and rationale of comparative standardization research and outline directions for further research in the area. The volume will be of interest to language historians as well as sociolinguists in general.
