Rainer, 2018-03-01 Most church members don't see their churches clearly In almost all of Thom S Rainer's consultations church members perceive their church to be friendly But as he surveyed guests he found that the guests typically saw church members as unfriendly The perception chasm existed because the members were indeed friendly to one another The guests felt like they crashed a private party Bestselling author Thom Rainer I Am a Church Member Autopsy of a Deceased Church has a game plan for churches to become more hospitable In a format that is suitable for church members to read individually or study together Rainer guides readers toward a practical framework for making a difference for those who visit their church Churches may use Becoming a Welcoming Church to assess and audit where they are on a spectrum between welcoming and wanting Additionally churches can use the companion book We Want You Here to send guests home with a compelling vision for what pastors want every guest to know when they visit Beyond the First Visit Gary L. McIntosh, 2006-09-01 All churches like to think that theirs is the friendliest in town But do visitors see it that way Church

Visiting the local church is said to be a powerful case of participatory learning. Inside the church, the students have an actual multi-sensory encounter with Christian practice. Moreover, leaving the classroom to visit some artifact nearby is attractive and is said to raise the situational interest of the students. An empirical study on the effects of such field trips, however, is still missing. This volume addresses this research gap in religious education. It provides insight into the theoretical background, the empirical design, and the results of a project about field trips to the local church in compulsory Catholic religious education in German primary schools. It draws a comprehensive picture of such effects by identifying the benefits of scholastic field trips as well as the obstacles of this didactic set-up. The volume closes with a description of didactic principles and methods which help to improve scholastic field trips to the local church. Ulrich Riegel is Professor for Religionspädagogik am Seminar für Katholische Theologie der Universität Siegen. 100 Ways to Get Your Church Noticed Neil Pugmire, 2024-09-30.
