The World

in a Selfie Marco d'Eramo,2021-03-16 We've all been tourists at some point in our lives. How is it we look so condescendingly at people taking selfies in front of the Tower of Pisa? Is there really much to distinguish the package holiday from hipster city breaks to Berlin or Brooklyn? Why do we engage our free time in an activity we profess to despise? The World in a Selfie dissects a global cultural phenomenon. For Marco D'Eramo, tourism is not just the most important industry of the century, generating huge waves of people and capital, calling forth a dedicated infrastructure and upsetting and repurposing the architecture and topography of our cities. It also encapsulates the problem of modernity, the search for authenticity in a world of ersatz pleasures. D'Eramo retraces the grand tours of the first globetrotters from Francis Bacon and Samuel Johnson to Arthur de Gobineau and Mark Twain, before assessing the cultural meaning of the beach holiday and the UNESCO cide of major heritage sites. The tourist selfie will never look the same again.

They filled him with a light that was equal parts crazy wonder and uncontrollable curiosity The eyes did more than just see They thought watched and imagined What really set Zorg apart were his six very skilled arms Each one could move in beautiful fluid ways These arms and legs weren't just parts they were tools for exploring and learning and they all worked together perfectly Each arm could spin and whirl with the accuracy of a master craftsman so Zorg could use them to work on the complicated tools in his workshop For the people who lived in his world his arms were just a blur of movement like the rocks that were floating around without any care Zorg lived in a big hollow building that was half submerged in the middle of a huge clear crystal that pulsed with the planet's energy His apartment was full of tools and gizmos some of which were only partially put together and others were in different stages of repair Wires crossed each other across the floors like vines in a strange jungle and strange gadgets stayed in zero gravity ready for Zorg's quick fingers to call them up Zorg was interested in both amazing technological advances and the idea that there might be life outside of his own world A story says that there was once a world called Earth where people moved on two legs and water was solid instead of gas Zorg tried to understand these animals who seemed so different from him for many cycles He thought about how beautiful their sky was how rough their land was and how many stories they must have to tell His interest went beyond the things that were right in front of him Zorg was interested in nature Thanks to his many legs he was able to swim in seas full of bioluminescent life and climb mountains full of life He went on every trip to try to figure out a little more about the big puzzle that was his world People all over the world read about Zorg's trials He made drugs that let people see in three dimensions and engines that whispered the secrets of warp speed His most ambitious invention so far was a device that could link worlds and open doors to other planets galaxies and opportunities He wanted to meet the animals from his favorite stories by going through the Nexus Conduit That's what he called it The other beings were both scared and amazed by Zorg They thought there was enough room in the universe to look into every nook and hole They didn't get why Zorg was so restless or why he had to spend his days researching and asking questions On the other hand Zorg was not pleased He was drawn to the stars and the stories they held by a calling Every night Zorg would sit under the planet's sparkling plants and look up at the sky with all three eyes He planned his trip figured out his path and dreamed of meeting people from cultures light years away In his heart he wanted to connect with people share knowledge and tell stories
