Findings and Recommendations on California's Permanent Partial Disability System Rachel Kaganoff Stern, Mark A. Peterson, Robert T. Reville, Mary E. Compensating Permanent Workplace Injuries Mark A. Peterson, 1998 Workers in California experiencing injuries at work that result in permanent partial disabilities PPD are eligible to receive compensation The workers benefits doctors and attorneys fees and the system that processes the hundreds of thousands of annual claims cost employers billions of dollars each year This report evaluates the workers compensation system by examining its efficiency and the adequacy and equity of its benefits and suggests system reforms The authors conducted interviews with system participants and found that the system is still troubled by many of the same problems that plagued it before the 1989 and 1993 reforms It remains overly costly complex and litigious while delivering modest benefits The authors estimated the wage losses of PPD claimants in 1991-93 and found that even after five years the injured workers earned considerably less than controls In addition injured workers experience considerable time out of work not just immediately after the injury but also after the initial return to work The authors identified particular problems among claims categorized by the workers compensation system as minor the vast majority of claims For this group wage replacement rates were lowest Reform proposals include an elective fast track to streamline claims processing and a revision to the disability rating schedule to improve the relationship between wage loss and benefits paid Annual Report California. Commission on Health and Safety and Workers' Compensation, 2009 The

Permanent Disability at Private, Self-insured Firms Robert T. Reville, 2001 Employers that self insure for workers compensation have greater incentives than insured employers to return injured employees to work as quickly as possible And because self insured firms typically are larger they often have more opportunities to offer injured workers modified work This report examines the consequences of a disabling workplace injury for workers at 68 private self insured employers in California from 1991 through 1995 Using employer provided data on permanent disability claims which were then linked to longitudinal data from the state of California on earnings before and after injury the authors estimate the earnings losses associated with a permanent disability and examine the post injury employment patterns of permanent disability claimants They found significant earnings losses for claimants at the self insured firms more than 20 percent of earnings over the five years after injury The authors compared the experiences of workers at self insured firms with workers at insured firms and found lower proportional losses at self insured firms but also slightly lower replacement rates They also found better return to work at self insured firms However when controlling for pre injury earnings industry and firm size differences in earnings losses between workers injured at self insured and insured firms are diminished Annual Report Rand Corporation, 1998

Selected Rand Abstracts Rand Corporation, 2001 Includes publications previously listed in the supplements to the Index of selected publications of the Rand Corporation Oct 1962 Feb 1963 Discovery Management James S. Kakalik, Judicial Conference of the United States, 1998 The Civil Justice Reform Act of 1990 CJRA required that each federal district court develop a case management plan to reduce costs and delay The legislation also created a pilot program to test six principles of case management and required an independent evaluation to assess their effects After the main evaluation report was completed the Advisory Committee on Civil Rules of the Judicial Conference of the United States asked RAND to conduct further analyses of the CJRA evaluation data to see if additional light could be shed on discovery management _
