mpelmann follows the evolution of airports from their conceptualization as landscapes and cities to modern day plans to turn decommissioned airports into public urban parks The author discusses landscape design and planning activities that were motivated legitimized and facilitated by the aerial view She also shows how viewing the earth from above redirected attention to bodily experience on the ground and illustrates how design professionals understood the aerial view as simultaneously abstract and experiential detailed and contextual harmful and essential Along the way D mpelmann traces this multiple dialectic from the 1920s to the land camouflage activities during World War II and from the environmental and landscape planning initiatives of the 1960s through today
