Theoretical approaches to Bilingual First Language Acquisition ,2017-09-11 Seminar paper from the year 2016 in the subject Speech Science Linguistics grade 2 7 University of Bayreuth language English abstract In today s era society becomes more and more globalized with the increase of languages in contact As a result more and more people get in touch with learn and use new languages whether for private or occupational reasons Therefore the interest in studying people who use two or more languages in an equal manner has greatly increased These people are called

Bi or Multilinguals Due to the described development of society the number of children growing up in multilingual communities and bilingual families is also increasing Children achieve languages remarkable quickly and it is even more remarkable when they learn two languages simultaneously from the very beginning of their life The central point of interest for this paper is different theoretical approaches to the development of BFLA by children Since the topic is studied for centuries this paper has of course no claim for completeness Thus the focus will be on Annick DeHouwer s work to Bilingual first language acquisition In Chapter 2 the mentioned work by DeHouwer is introduced and explained on the basis of terminological definition The following points specify the importance of the environment for Bilingual First Language Acquisition before an overview of the major linguistic developments is made The focus of the third chapter is on three theories that aim at explaining the complex matter of Bilingual First Language Acquisition process After that these theories are compared with one another under several points of view Subsequently one of the named theories is applied on the introduced work of Annick DeHouwer to show that it can certainly be applied The basic theories of language acquisition Lena Linden,2008-02-12 Seminar paper from the year 2007 in the subject English Language and Literature Studies Linguistics grade 1 3 University of Cologne Englisches Seminar course HS First Language Acquisition language English abstract Most of the concepts and theories explaining how native languages are acquired go back to three different approaches put forward by Burrhus Federic Skinner Noam Chomsky and Jean Piaget either by using their ideas as a starting point or by rejecting them and formulating a new or altered Hypothesis This paper will try to present those three basic theories also taking into account the contexts out of which they emerged as to fully understand linguistic like any other scientific views and theories they have always to be evaluated with respect to the scientific and cultural background they appeared in First it will try to show how Skinners concept of verbal behavior with respect to language acquisition emerged in the development of behaviouristic theories This will be followed by Chomsky s criticism of Skinner s ideas leading to his own theory of language and language acquisition which will be presented Jean Piaget offers a cognitive approach to the question His view will be described before comparing nativist and cognitivist ideas concerning the points whether or not innate structures exist and in how far linguistic and cognitive development are interrelated taking the opposed views of Piaget and Chomsky the forerunners of many other important linguists as an example Syntactic Theory and First Language Acquisition (Vol.1)Barbara Lust,Margarita Suer,John Whitman,(Vol.2)Barbara Lust,Gabriella Hermon,2018-10-24 Universal Grammar UG is a theory of both the fundamental principles for all possible languages and the language faculty in the initial state of the human organism These two volumes approach the study of UG by joint tightly linked studies of both linguistic theory and human competence for language acquisition In particular the volumes collect comparable studies across a number of different languages carefully analyzed by a wide range of international scholars The issues surrounding cross linguistic variation in Heads Projections and Learnability Volume 1 and in Binding Dependencies and Learnability Volume 2

are arguably the most fundamental in UG How can principles of grammar be learned by general learning theory What is biologically programmed in the human species in order to guarantee their learnability What is the true linguistic representation for these areas of language knowledge What universals exist across languages The two volumes summarize the most critical current proposals in each area and offer both theoretical and empirical evidence bearing on them Research on first language acquisition and formal learnability theory is placed at the center of debates relative to linguistic theory in each area The convergence of research across several different disciplines linguistics developmental psychology and computer science represented in these volumes provides a paradigm example of cognitive science
