Subsidies in World Fisheries Matteo Milazzo, 1998-01-01 In the past six years the world's fishery sector has reached a turning point with global fish production reaching a plateau of approximately 100 million tons annually While aquaculture output continued to grow yields from capture fisheries were uneven and showed increasing signs of stagnation because of widespread overfishing and overcapitalization ineffective management deteriorating resource health declining or flat global harvests and inefficient economic and trade policies This paper examines the role of subsidies in fisheries

Fisheries Credit Programmes and Revolving Loan Funds U. Tietze (ed.), P. Merrikin, 1989 While it is widely acknowledged that the availability of institutional credit is an important pre condition for the further development of the small scale fisheries sector of many developing countries the lack of well documented information with regard to the reasons for the success or failure of fisheries credit schemes impedes progress in the design and operation of new fisheries credit programmes and revolving loan funds In order to gain more information in this vital area the Fishery Industries Division of FAO initiated a series of case studies in Asia Africa the Middle East Latin America and the Caribbean on successful fishery credit programmes and revolving loan funds Successful was defined by an over all positive socio economic impact the full utilization of credits for their intended purpose achievement of disbursement targets and satisfactory loan recovery Each region is represented by two or three case studies selected on the basis of various institutional and operational circumstances in order to cover all major settings of fisheries credit operations The case studies presented in this volume reflect the opinions of their authors who in some cases have been closely associated with the design and implementation of the credit programmes Some editorial changes have been made to facilitate presentation and comparison but the substance of the studies and the conclusions reached are those of the authors Report of the Expert Workshop on Guidelines for Micro-finance, Credit and Insurance for Small-scale Fisheries in Asia Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 2019-10-17 The Expert Workshop on Guidelines for Micro finance Credit and Insurance for Small scale Fisheries in Asia was held in Bangkok Thailand in the period 7-9 May 2019 Rural finance insurance and fisheries experts from Bangladesh China India Indonesia Japan Philippines Thailand UK Canada and the USA met to discuss ways to improve the access to financial services for small scale fishers in Asia The workshop aimed to discuss successful finance and insurance programmes in Asia for small scale fishers finalize practical guidelines in support of better access to financial services and design a capacity building programme for increasing the provision of finance and insurance services to small scale fisheries. The workshop was attended by 32 experts and was organized by the Asia Pacific Rural and Agricultural Credit Association (APRACA) in close collaboration with FAO. The insurance and credit guidelines prepared will facilitate the implementation of the Voluntary Guidelines for Securing Sustainable Small Scale Fisheries in the Context of Poverty Eradication and Food Security (SSF Guidelines) as well as contribute towards achievement of Sustainable Development Goal 14 (Access to finance and insurance services will enable the small scale fishers to invest in more responsible fishing operations and technologies, reduce overfishing, contribute to fisheries management and implement climate change adaptation measures). The microfinance credit and insurance guidelines for small scale fisheries have been endorsed by APRACA members in June 2019 and implementation throughout the Asian region is promoted.

Microfinance in Fisheries and Aquaculture Uwe Tietze, Lolita V. Villareal, Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 2003. These guidelines provide principles and basic considerations on microfinance services to fisheries and aquaculture. Lending models, methodologies and policies are elaborated that are applicable to fisheries while adhering to best practices in the microfinance field. An overview is given of recent experiences with microfinance programmes in fisheries and aquaculture in Asia and conclusions are drawn regarding future directions and initiatives. Two case studies of FAO executed projects incorporating microfinance programmes in coastal fishing community development in the Philippines and in small scale aquaculture development in Viet Nam provide examples of how microfinance can contribute to the empowerment of women in fishing and fish farming communities, help alleviate poverty and contribute to the socio-economic well-being and food security of fishers and fish farmers.

Guidelines for micro-finance and credit services in support of small-scale fisheries in Asia Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 2019-07-12. These Guidelines for increasing access of small scale fisheries to credit and microfinance services in Asia have been developed to support the implementation of the Voluntary Guidelines for Securing Sustainable Small Scale Fisheries in the Context of Food Security and Poverty Eradication (SSF Guidelines). The purpose of these guidelines is fourfold: i.e. to increase awareness about the financial service needs of small scale fishers; SSF for more sustainable and inclusive access to finance; Guide policy and decision makers in the Asia Pacific region and elsewhere to help introduce and incentivize financial services to small scale fishers with the ultimate objective to encourage investment in the industry and by doing so influence and strengthen sustainability, ecological and economic viability of these fisheries; Build capacity among financial service providers, fisherfolk organizations, NGOs and concerned government agencies to design and implement financial service products and programmes that suit the needs of small scale fishing communities and enhance social protection and Promote financial services that incentivize and reward a responsible and sustainable conduct of fishing fish processing and marketing operations The document commences by laying out the background and context purpose and target audience of these Guidelines It describes why microfinance and credit are important for small scale fisheries and why many small scale fishers are not currently financed which includes a discussion of risks The Guidelines suggest entry and leverage points for actors interested in supporting the access of financial services for SSFs and compares agriculture smallholders and SSF business characteristics The Guidelines identify a range of actors involved in finance of SSF which include supply side demand side multifunction and enabling environment actors It elaborates on the likely roles and activities of each category of actor as well as their incentives and constraints in the provision or receipt of finance The Guidelines describe some key good practices in the provision of microfinance and credit to SSFs and delves into some detail on the market main activities and possible products the role of product design policies and procedures marketing and promotion risk assessment and credit analysis delivery channels loan monitoring and repayment elements and the need for product pricing to contribute to institutional sustainability Finally the Guidelines provide advice to second tier investors including guidance on the use of smart subsidies and when concessionary loan funds may be preferable to loan guarantees

Credit and Microfinance Needs in Inland Capture Fisheries Development and Conservation in Asia Uwe Tietze, Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 2007-01-01 This publication provides orientation basic considerations and general principles for those institutions and organizations that provide credit and microfinance services to the fisheries sector particularly the small scale fisheries sector and for those who want to include inland fishers and inland capture fisheries as part of their client base and lending operations The document has three parts Part 1 contains guidelines for meeting the credit and microfinance needs in inland capture fisheries development and conservation in Asia Part 2 contains reports of the proceedings and recommendations of two regional workshops held in 2004 and 2006 from which the guidelines evolved Part 3 of the document consists of case studies and success stories on the rehabilitation of inland fisheries and on the access to and utilization of credit and microfinance services with reference to the rehabilitation and development of inland fisheries at Lake Taihu and Lake Luoma in China management challenges in riverine fisheries along River Ganga and prospects of inland fisheries development in West Bengal and Assam in India livelihoods at Lake Inlay in Southern Shan State in Myanmar fishery policy reform and aquaculture development in Cambodia and community based rehabilitation and management of fishery resources at river Kinabatangan in Sabah Malaysia

Loayza, Lucian M. Sprague, 1992 This paper proposes a strategy for fisheries development aimed primarily at the World Bank Group but it is also believed to have relevance to all development institutions concerned with fisheries development The paper was developed from an extensive review and analysis of the current trends and worldwide status of the fishery sector and its relationship with other economic and social sectors giving ample consideration to the lessons learned from past experience The authors propose a development strategy built on four institutional elements and a number of avenues in which sectoral prospects may be influenced in positive directions to further development The institutional elements are interagency coordination sector studies fisheries research and private sector development The sectoral aspects are improving resource management managing the environment developing human resources particularly recognizing the role of women in development developing aquaculture developing artisanal and inland water fisheries and developing and restructuring semi industrial and industrial fisheries primarily through the private sector
