somewhat freer position and wider vision and they sought to glorify heroes who were neither gods nor kings but the representatives of the people in a more popular sense Thus the Iliad dwells upon the achievements of Achilles and Ajax and Hector rather than upon the deeds of Menelaus and Priam the opposing kings Hitherto the deeds of all these heroes would simply have been transferred to the credit of the king Now the individual of lesser rank is to have a hearing Moreover the state itself is now considered apart from its particular ruler The histories of Herodotus of Xenophon of Thucydides of Polybius in effect make for the glorification not of individuals but of peoples This shift from the purely egoistic to the altruistic standpoint marks a long step The writer now has much more clearly in view the idea of entertaining without frightening his reader and he thinks to instruct in matters pertaining to good citizenship and communal morality rather than in deference to kings and gods In so doing the historian marks the progress of civilisation of the Greek and early Roman periods In the medi val time there is a strong reaction To frighten becomes again a method of attacking the consciousness to glorify the gods and heroes a chief aim As was the case in the Egyptian and Persian and Indian periods of degeneration the early monotheism has given way to polytheism Hagiology largely takes the place of secular history A constantly growing company of saints demands attention and veneration To glorify these to show the futility of all human action that does not make for such glorification became again an aim of the historian But this influence is by no means altogether dominant and though there is no such list of historians worthy to be remembered as existed in the classical period yet such names appear as those of Einhard the biographer of Charlemagne De Joinville the panegyrist of Saint Louis Villani Froissart and Monstrelet the chroniclers and Comines Machiavelli and Guicciardini

Munroe, 2025-10-01 This book examines a group of sixteenth and seventeenth century figural silks depicting legendary lovers from the Khamasa Quintet of epic Persian poetry Codified by Nizami Ganjavi in the twelfth century the Khamasa gained popularity in the Persian speaking realm through illustrated manuscripts produced for the elite creating a template for illustrating climactic scenes in the love stories of Layla and Majnun and Khusrau and Shirin that appear on early modern silks Attributed to Safavid Iran the publication proposes that dress fashioned from these silks represented Sufi ideals based on the characters Migration of weavers between Safavid and Mughal courts resulted in producing goods for a sophisticated and educated elite demonstrating shared cultural values and potential reattribution Through an examination of primary source materials literary analysis of the original text and close iconographical study of figural designs the study presents original cross disciplinary arguments about patronage provenance and the socio cultural significance of wearing these silks
