Post-Westerns Neil Campbell, 2020-04-01 During the post World War II period the Western like America's other great film genres appeared to collapse as a result of revisionism and the emergence of new forms Perhaps however as theorists like Gilles Deleuze suggest it remains simply maintaining its empty frame Yet this frame is far from empty as Post Westerns shows us rather than collapse the Western instead found a new form through which to scrutinize and question the very assumptions on which the genre was based Employing the ideas of critics such as Deleuze Jacques Derrida and Jacques Rancière Neil Campbell examines the haunted inheritance of the Western in contemporary U S culture His book reveals how close examination of certain postwar films including Bad Day at Black Rock The Misfits Lone Star Easy Rider Gas Food Lodging Down in the Valley and No Country for Old Men reconfigures our notions of region and nation the Western and indeed the West itself Campbell suggests that post Westerns are in fact ghost Westerns haunted by the earlier form's devices and styles in ways that at once acknowledge and call into question the West both as such and in its persistent ideological framing of the national identity and values

Roger Ebert's Four Star Reviews--1967-2007 Roger Ebert, 2008-02 Presents a collection of the critic's most positive film reviews of the last four decades arranged alphabetically from About Last Night to Zodiac      Home and Away Joanne Meschery, 1998-10 Hedy's private world is being stretched thin on all fronts thanks to the emotional demands placed on her by her teenage daughter stroke victim father and speed skiing legend husband As the political issues of the outside world encroach on her increasingly fragile private one Hedy learns to take a side her side for the first time      Bowker's Guide to Characters in Fiction 2007 , 2008-02      John Huston as Adaptor Douglas McFarland, Wesley King, 2017-01-28 John Huston as Adaptor makes the case that adaptation is the salient element in Huston's identity as a filmmaker and that his early and deep attraction to the experience of reading informed his approach to film adaptation Thirty four of Huston's thirty seven films were adaptations of literary texts and they stand as serious interpretations of literary works that could only be made by an astute reader of literature Indeed Huston asserted that a film director should be above all else a reader and that reading itself should be the intellectual and emotional basis for filmmaking The seventeen essays in this volume not only address Huston as an adaptor but also offer an approach to adaptation studies that has been largely overlooked How an adaptor reads the works to which he is drawn and how his literary interpretations can be brought to the screen without relegating film to a subservient role are some of the issues addressed by the contributors An introductory chapter identifies Huston as the quintessential Hollywood adaptor and argues that his skill at adaptation is the mark of his authorial signature The chapters that follow focus on fifteen of Huston's most important films including The Maltese Falcon 1941 The Treasure of the Sierra Madre 1948 The African Queen 1951 The Night of the Iguana 1964 Under the Volcano 1984 and The Dead 1987 and are divided into three areas aesthetics and textuality history and social context and theory and psychoanalysis By offering a more comprehensive account of the centrality of adaptation to Huston's films John Huston as Adaptor offers a greater understanding of Huston as a filmmaker      The New Yorker Harold Wallace Ross, William Shawn, Tina Brown, David Remnick, Katharine Sergeant Angell White, Rea Irvin, Roger Angell, 1929      Encounters With American Culture Peter S. Prescott, 2005-10-01 This collection of essays discusses some of the important books authors and literary trends of a volatile era in American and world literature whose cultural repercussions are still being felt Peter S Prescott was one of the most penetrating knowledgeable and sensitive critics to write for a general audience in the tradition of Edmund Wilson Readers will discover not only Prescott's acute and subtle comments on the enduring and or representative books of the time but also his humor and style his way with an anecdote or aphorism his talent for parody and his ability to laugh at himself as well as at the authors he sometimes skewers Prescott's writing has an immediacy and vivacity that suggests what it was like to read

new books during his time Here is one critic's view ironic and complex of good books by famous writers like Norman Mailer Jorge Luis Borges Joyce Carol Oates Aleksandr Solzhenitsyn and Vladimir Nabokov as well as of good books by little known writers and others who would later achieve renown Here too is some astringent criticism of distinguished and popular authors who have fallen into self indulgence Prescott writes about the New Journalism in its early days and about fragmentary autobiography as a literary form genres whose importance he was among the first to recognize His essays also touch on theater film food and politics The criticism in this volume are examples of the literary essay in its truest sense an attempt to explore in however brief space allowed what the author sees around him and connections between books and other aspects of the way people live Always personal and urbane these essays are often hilarious generally moving and exemplify the essay as an art form Peter S Prescott was book review editor for Newsweek His books include A Darkening Green Notes from the Silent Generation and The Child Savers Juvenile Justice Observed Anne L Prescott is Helen Goodhart Altschul Professor of English at Barnard College

Ross MacDonald Tom Nolan, 2015-07-07 When he died in 1983 Ross Macdonald was the best known and most highly regarded crime fiction writer in America Long considered the rightful successor to the mantles of Dashiell Hammett and Raymond Chandler Ross Macdonald and his Lew Archer novels were hailed by The New York Times as the finest series of detective novels ever written by an American Now in the first full length biography of this extraordinary and influential writer a much fuller picture emerges of a man to whom hiding things came as second nature While it was no secret that Ross Macdonald was the pseudonym of Kenneth Millar a Santa Barbara man married to another good mystery writer Margaret Millar his official biography was spare Drawing on unrestricted access to the Kenneth and Margaret Millar Archives on more than forty years of correspondence and on hundreds of interviews with those who knew Millar well author Tom Nolan has done a masterful job of filling in the blanks between the psychologically complex novels and the author's life both secret and overt Ross Macdonald came to crime writing honestly Born in northern California to Canadian parents Kenneth Millar grew up in Ontario virtually fatherless poor and with a mother whose mental stability was very much in question From the age of twelve young Millar was fighting stealing and breaking social and moral laws by his own admission he barely escaped being a criminal Years later Millar would come to see himself in his tales wrongdoers I don't have to be violent he said My books are How this troubled young man came to be one of the most brilliant graduate students in the history of the University of Michigan and how this writer who excelled in a genre all too often looked down upon by literary critics came to have a lifelong friendship with Eudora Welty are all examined in the pages of Tom Nolan's meticulous biography. We come to a sympathetic understanding of the Millars' long and sometimes rancorous marriage and of their life in Santa Barbara, California, with their only daughter Linda, whose legal and emotional traumas lie at the very heart of the story. But we also follow the trajectory of a literary career that began in the pages of Manhunt and ended with the great respect of such fellow writers as Marshall McLuhan, Hugh Kenner, Nelson Algren, and Reynolds Price, and the longtime distinguished publisher Alfred A. Knopf. As Ross Macdonald's Biography makes abundantly clear, Ross Macdonald's greatest character, above and beyond his famous Lew Archer, was none other than his creator, Kenneth Millar.

The place of the editor in literary production is an ambiguous and often invisible one, requiring close attention to publishing history and often inaccessible archival resources to bring it into focus. In The Art of Editing, Tim Groenland shows that the critical tendency to overlook the activities of editors and to focus on the solitary author figure neglects important elements of how literary works are acquired, developed, and disseminated. Focusing on selected works of fiction by Raymond Carver and David Foster Wallace, authors who represent stylistic touchstones for US fiction of recent decades, Groenland presents two case studies of editorial collaboration. Carver's early stories were integral to the emergence of the Minimalist movement in the 1980s, while Wallace's novels marked a generational shift towards a more expansive, maximal mode of narrative. The role of their respective editors, however, is often overlooked. Gordon Lish's part in shaping the form of Carver's early stories remains underexplored; analyses of Wallace's fiction meanwhile tend to minimise Michael Pietsch's role from the creation of Infinite Jest during the mid 1990s until the present day. Drawing on extensive archival research as well as interviews with editors and collaborators, Groenland illuminates the complex and often conflicting forms of agency involved in the genesis of these influential works. The energies and tensions of the editing process emerge as essential factors in the creation of fictions more commonly understood within the paradigm of solitary authorship. The mediating role of the editor, Groenland argues, is inseparable from the development, form, and reception of these works.
