Culpeper's English Physician Nicholas Culpeper,1794 Cleveland Medical Gazette ,1891 Nature's Covenant C. Stephen Finley, 2010-11-01 Nature's Covenant a reading of John Ruskin including his neglected poems and early prose writings brings forth a fresh awareness of his career as an interpreter of landscape where landscape is conceived as a filter of human meaning of aesthetic and theological significance The book shows the correlation in Ruskin's work between the Reformed theology of his religious tradition and the Romantic poetics of literature that he sought to practice It reconstructs the particular hermeneutic of landscape that Ruskin developed a vision of the natural world that depended equally upon the Romantic evangelical renovation of heart and eye and a remarkable articulation of the typology of nature Ruskin s own the ria or contemplation of nature s text the full scale development of which takes place in Modern Painters II is revealed and explored inviting renewed understanding of works both early and late especially of certain key chapters of such often neglected works as The Requiem of St Mark's Rest or the Revision of Deucalion Finley shifts the emphasis away from the secularized readings of this century to recover lost religious meanings in Ruskin's critical writing including his unpublished sermons No previous modern study has focused on Ruskin's religious upbringings and its influence on his mature writings while countering the critical received orthodoxy about his faith his unconversion and inevitable secularization often retold as part of the narrative of modernism which proclaimed the necessary supersession of Victorian superstition by modern enlightenment Because of its commitment to a reading of Ruskin's religious sense in light of his romantic inheritance Nature s Covenant is also a book about Victorian romanticism sharing in the current reevaluation of Wordsworth's later career and in the renewed scholarly attention to Sir Walter Scott Chambers' Edinburgh Journal ,1841 Chambers's Journal of Popular Literature, Science and Arts ,1841
