

Fatal Asthma

The background of the slide is a photograph of a sunset or sunrise. A bright, glowing sun is positioned on the left side, creating a strong lens flare and illuminating the sky with warm orange and yellow light. The sky transitions from a deep orange near the horizon to a darker teal or blue at the top. In the lower right portion of the image, there are dark, silhouetted clouds or mountains.

Difficult and Severe Asthma in Children Andrew Bush, Giorgio Piacentini, Francesca Santamaria, Nicola Ullmann, Renato Cutrera, 2019-09-23 Globally severe asthma is defined by the WHO as either A untreated severe asthma B difficult to treat severe asthma and C treatment resistant severe asthma Untreated severe asthma is a political problem the children do not have access to the basic tools for asthma management and when this is corrected asthma outcomes are transformed The problem in difficult to treat severe asthma is not the airway disease but co morbidities and behavioral factors This is the group in which there are most asthma deaths underscoring that severe asthma cannot be solely defined by levels of prescribed therapy Treatment resistant severe asthma is rare and challenging and the problem is the airway pathology These children require new and innovative therapies

Focus on Asthma Research Miroslav Tersa, 2004 Asthma is a disease that affects the lungs It causes repeated episodes of wheezing breathlessness chest tightness and nighttime or early morning coughing Tens of millions of people throughout the world suffer from asthma Airways are the paths that carry air to the lungs As the air moves through the lungs the airways become smaller like branches of a tree During an attack the sides of the airways in the lungs become inflamed and swollen Muscles around the airways tighten and less air passes in and out of the lungs Excess mucus forms in the airways clogging them even more The attack also called an episode can include coughing chest tightness wheezing and trouble breathing Environmental exposures such as house dust mites and environmental tobacco smoke are important triggers of an attack This new book presents important new research on the causes on asthma as well as its diagnosis and treatment

Airway Wall Remodelling in Asthma A. G.

Stewart,2020-10-28 Asthma is a disease of high prevalence that has shown a trend toward increasing incidence morbidity and mortality over the last three decades despite apparently effective drug treatments and increasing awareness of the need for better disease management Often the inflammatory component of asthma is studied however the tissue remodelling process is a significant process that should not be overlooked This valuable reference synthesizes current data and concepts developed to determine the relationship between airway wall remodelling and the pathogenesis of asthma It discusses evidence for structural changes in asthmatic airway the relationship between airway thickening and hyperresponsiveness the relationship between cytokine production and tissue remodelling and inflammation the significance of epithelial changes and the extracellular matrix and in vivo and in vitro experimental approaches to the assessment of remodelling Pharmacological and biochemical mechanisms that control cell proliferation are also examined The consequences of airway wall remodelling for airway hyperresponsiveness is the unique focus of this volume offering a fresh perspective of advances in asthma research
