Fate Of A Gesture Jackson Pollock And Postwar American Art:

The Fate Of A Gesture Carter Ratcliff, 2019-07-09 I am indebted first to Thomas B Hess and James Fitzsimmons the editors of Artnews and Art International who encouraged me to publish the essays and reviews that led years later to this book I am equally grateful for the encouragement I have received from Elizabeth C Baker the editor of Art in America

The Fate of a Gesture Carter Ratcliff, 1996-02-28 Flinging his colors onto the canvas pouring and dripping his paints in a quintessentially American gesture Jackson Pollock redefined the art of painting It was the fate of Pollock's gesture to be mimicked modified and denied by artists of immense stature Drawing from twenty years of experience as an art critic in New York Carter Ratcliff maps the Manhattan art world revisiting the world of studios galleries and artist's bars where these personalities met and clashed Over the story looms the monumental and tragic figure of Pollock the measure of all who have felt compelled to challenge him

Voyages of the Self Barbara Novak, 2009-05-15 Barbara Novak is one of America's premier art historians the author of the seminal books American Painting of the Nineteenth Century and Nature and Culture the latter of which was named one of the Ten Best Books of the Year by The New York Times and was nominated for a National Book Critics Circle Award Now with Voyages of the Self this esteemed critic completes the trilogy begun with the two earlier works offering once again an exhilarating exploration of American art and culture In this book Novak explores several inspired pairings of key writers and painters drawing insightful parallels between such masters as John Singleton Copley and Jonathan Edwards Winslow Homer and William James Frederic Edwin Church and Walt Whitman and Jackson Pollock and Charles Olson Through these and other groupings Novak tracks the varied meanings of the self in America in which the most salient characteristics of each artist or writer is shown to draw from and in turn influence the larger map of American life Two major threads weaving through the book are the American preoccupation with the object and our continuing return to pragmatism Novak notes for instance how Copley's art mirrors the puritan denial of self found in Jonathan Edwards and how as colonial scientists they share an interest in sensation and observation She sees Winslow Homer and William James as practitioners of a pragmatic self grounded in an immediate experience that looks for concrete results Through such fruitful comparisons whether between Copley and Edwards or Lane and Emerson or Ryder and Dickinson Novak sheds unmatched light on our nation's artistic heritage Wonderfully illustrated with dozens of black and white pictures and sixteen full color plates here is a stunning work that yields a wealth of insight into American art and culture and concludes Novak's landmark trilogy

Thomas Hart Benton Justin Wolff, 2012-03-13 Born in Missouri at the end of the nineteenth century Thomas Hart Benton would become the most notorious and celebrated painter America had ever seen The first artist to make the cover of Time he was a true original an heir to both the rollicking populism of his father's political family and the quiet life of his Appalachian grandfather In his twenties he would find his calling in New York where he was drawn to memories of his small town youth and to visions of the American scene By the mid 1930s Benton's heroic murals were featured in galleries statehouses universities and museums and magazines commissioned him to report on the stories of the day Yet even as the nation learned his name he was often scorned by critics and political commentators many of whom found him too nationalistic and his art too regressive Even Jackson Pollock his once devoted former student would turn away from him in dramatic fashion A boxer in his youth Benton was quick to fight back but the widespread backlash had an impact and foreshadowed many of the artistic debates that would dominate the coming decades In this definitive biography Justin Wolff places Benton in the context of his tumultuous historical moment as well as in the landscapes and cultural circles that inspired him Thomas Hart Benton with compelling insights into Benton s art his philosophy and his family history rescues a great American artist from myth and hearsay and provides an indelibly moving portrait of an influential controversial and often misunderstood man

Lukes, 2016-06-28 This book holds classical liberalism responsible for an American concept of beauty that centers upon women wilderness and machines For each of the three beauty components a cultural entrepreneur supremely sensitive to liberalism's survival agenda is introduced P T Barnum's exhibition of Jenny Lind is a masterful combination of female elegance and female potency in the subsistence realm John Muir's Yosemite Valley is surely exquisite but only after a rigorous liberal education prepares for its experience And

Harley Earl's 1955 Chevrolet Bel Air is a dreamy expressionist sculpture but with a practical 265 cubic inch V 8 underneath. Not that American beauty has been uniformly pragmatic. The 1950s are reconsidered for having temporarily facilitated a relaxation of the liberal survival priorities and the creations of painter Jackson Pollock and jazz virtuoso Ornette Coleman are evaluated for their resistance to the pressures of pragmatism. The author concludes with a provocative speculation regarding a future liberal habitat where Emerson's admonition to attach stars to wagons is rescinded. De Kooning's Bicycle

Robert Long, 2025-06-25. Some of the twentieth century's most important artists and writers from Jackson Pollock to Saul Steinberg, Frank O'Hara to Jean Stafford lived and worked on the East End of Long Island years before it assumed an alternate identity as the Hamptons. The home they made there and its effect on their work is the subject of these searching lyrical vignettes by the critic and poet Robert Long. Pollock moved to Springs because he thought he wanted to stop drinking but he found a connection to nature there that inspired some of the most significant paintings of our time. Others followed him. When Fairfield Porter bought a house in Southampton, the New York School suddenly had a new headquarters and James Schuyler and Frank O'Hara found companionship and raw material for their poems on South Main Street and on the three-hour train ride between the city and the East End. Willem de Kooning rode his bike every day between his studio in the East Hampton woods and the bay where the light informed every brushstroke he put to canvas from the early 1960s on. In De Kooning's Bicycle, Long mixes storytelling with history to re-create the lives and events that shaped American art and literature as we know it today in a landscape where town met country and the modern met America's rural past.
