F'd Companies Philip J. Kaplan, 2002-04-09 Not long ago the world was awash with venture capital in search of the next Yahoo or Amazon com No product no experience no technology no business plan no problem You could still get 40 million from investors to start up your dot com And you could get people to work around the clock for stock options and the promise of millions Then around April 2000 it all came crashing down Smart investors esteemed analysts and the business press found themselves asking Who knew people wouldn't rush out to trade in their U S dollars for a virtual currency called Flooz Who knew people wouldn't blow all their Flooz on a used car from the guys at iMotors com And who needed a used car from iMotors com when they could just sit at home and have 40 lb bags of dog food delivered to them by a sock puppet F d Companies captures the waste greed and human stupidity of more than 100 dot com companies Written in Philip J Kaplan's popular cynical style these profiles are filled with colorful anecdotes factoids and information unavailable anywhere else Together they form a gleeful encyclopedia of how not to run a business They also capture a truly remarkable period of history F d Companies is required reading for everyone involved in the new economy assuming your severance check can cover the cost

No-collar Andrew Ross, 2004 While the internet bubble has burst the New Economy that the internet produced is still with us along with the myth of a workplace built around more humane notions of how people work and spend their days in offices No Collar is the only close study of New Economy workplaces in their heyday Andrew Ross a renowned writer and scholar of American intellectual and social life spent eighteen months deep inside Silicon Alley in residence at two prominent New Economy companies Razorfish and 360hiphop and interviewed a wide range of industry employees in other cities to write this remarkable book Maverick in their organizations and permissive in their culture these workplaces offered personal freedoms and rewards that were unheard of in corporate America Employees feared they may never again enjoy such an irresistible work environment Yet for every apparent benefit there appeared to be a hidden cost 70 hour workweeks a lack of managerial protection an oppressive shouldering of risk by employees an illusory sense of power sharing and no end of emotional churning The industrialization of bohemia encouraged employees to think outside the box but also allowed companies to claim their most free and creative thoughts and ideas In these workplaces Andrew Ross encountered a new kind of industrial personality and emerged with a sobering lesson Be careful what you wish for When work becomes sufficiently humane we tend to do far too much of it and it usurps an unacceptable portion of our lives He concludes that we should not have to choose between a personally gratifying and a just workplace we should strive to enjoy both Author note Andrew Ross is Professor in the American Studies program at New York University A writer for Artforum The Nation The Village Voice and many other publications he is the author or editor of thirteen books including The Celebration Chronicles Real Love The Chicago Gangster Theory of Life Strange Weather No Respect and most recently Low Pay High Profile The Global Push for Fair Labor
