Shlapentokh, Joshua Woods, 2007-11-26 The book offers a theoretical discussion of the feudal model and a preliminary application of the model to post Soviet Russia In addition to a review of the feudal model as an ideal type the author explains the analytical benefits of drawing comparisons between countries and across historical contexts Specifically contemporary Russia is compared to Western European countries during the Middle Ages and to the Soviet period in Russian history The book is devoted to illuminating the most important political social and economic characteristics of contemporary Russian society From 'Civil Society' to 'Europe' Grazyna

Skapska,2011-05-23 In East Central Europe constitutionalism comprises an effort by postcommunist societies to consolidate around certain values principles and rules that would facilitate the formation of a new political architecture as well as a new political identity for their countries Based primarily on the experience of Poland in comparison with other East Central European countries this book debates the specific features of postcommunist constitutionalism The result is a theory of reflexive constitutionalism informed by the sociological theory of reflexive modernization which assesses critically the intellectual resources as well as the consolidating potential of the classic foundations of liberal democracy within the reality of postcommunist transformation Popper's Open Society After Fifty Years Ian Jarvie,Sandra Pralong,2005-08-12

The Global Spread of Fertility Decline Jay Winter, Michael Teitelbaum, 2013-06-18 DIV The world's population has grown by five billion people over the past century an astounding 300 percent increase Yet it is actually the decline in family size and population growth that is the issue attracting greatest concern in many countries This eye opening book looks at demographic trends in Europe North America and Asia areas that now have low fertility rates and argues that there is an essential yet often neglected political dimension to a full assessment of these trends Political decisions that promote or discourage marriage and childbearing facilitate or discourage contraception and abortion and stimulate or restrain immigration all have played significant roles in recent trends div

The Weakness of Civil Society in Post-Communist Europe Marc Morjé Howard, 2003-03-27 Over a decade has passed since the collapse of communism yet post communist citizens are still far less likely to join voluntary organizations than people from other countries Why do post communist citizens mistrust public organizations What explains this pattern of weak civil society And what does this mean for democracy in the region This engaging study addresses these questions with a provocative argument about the enduring impact of the communist experience on its countries and citizens Howard argues that the experience of mandatory participation in state controlled organizations and vibrant private networks during the communist period combined with the disappointment with post communist developments have left most citizens with a lasting aversion to public activities Howard analyzes the findings from over 30 democratic countries on the World Values Survey and also presents extensive and original evidence from his own research focused on Eastern Germany and Russia

The Struggle for Freedom from Fear Alison Brysk, 2018-08-08 How can we understand and contest the global wave of violence against women In this book Alison Brysk shows that gender violence across countries tends to change as countries develop and liberalize but not in the ways that we might predict She shows how liberalizing authoritarian countries and transitional democracies may experience more shifting patterns and greater levels of violence than less developed and democratic countries due to changes and uncertainties in economic and political structures Accordingly Brysk analyzes the experience of semi liberal developing countries at the frontiers of globalization Brazil India South Africa Mexico the Philippines and Turkey to map out patterns of gender violence and what can be done to change those patterns As the book shows gender violence is not static nor can it be attributed to culture or individual pathology rather it varies across a continuum that tracks economic political and social change While a combination of international action law public policy civil society mobilization and changes in social values work to decrease gender violence Brysk assesses the potential limits and balance of these measures Brysk shows that a human rights approach is necessary but not sufficient to address gender violence and that insights from feminist and development approaches are essential

Capital, Coercion, and Postcommunist States Gerald Easter, 2012-10-15 The postcommunist transitions produced two very different types of states The contractual state is associated with the countries of Eastern Europe which moved toward democratic regimes consensual relations with society and clear boundaries between political power and economic wealth The predatory state is associated with the successors to the USSR which instead developed authoritarian regimes coercive relations with society and poorly defined boundaries between the political and economic realms In Capital Coercion and Postcommunist States Gerald M Easter shows how the cumulative result of the many battles between state coercion and societal capital over taxation gave rise to these distinctive transition outcomes Easter s fiscal sociology of the postcommunist state highlights the interconnected paths that led from the fiscal crisis of the old regime through the revenue bargains of transitional tax regimes to the eventual reconfiguration of state society relations His focused comparison of Poland and Russia exemplifies postcommunism s divergent institutional forms The Polish case shows how conflicts over taxation influenced the emergence of a rule of law contractual state social market capitalism and civil society The Russian case reveals how revenue imperatives reinforced the emergence of a rule by law predatory state concessions style capitalism and dependent society
