February Patterns:

Meteorology of Flood-producing Storms in the Mississippi River Basin George A. Lott, 1956 This report is primarily concerned with intensive precipitation falling as rain over the central part of the Mississippi River Basin during the months of January through July Other precipitation in the Basin is relatively ineffective in producing floods on the main stem Snow melt is not negligible in Mississippi floods but has never been the primary cause of a historical Lower Mississippi flood Major floods are not experienced from August to December because the ground dried during the summer has an accumulated capacity to soak up water any hypothetical flood between August and December would be overshadowed for design purposes by a hypothetical flood of the same likelihood of occurrence between January and July The latter would be drastically more severe

Jain,2020-07-24 This book summarizes the research findings presented at the 13th International Joint Conference on Knowledge Based Software Engineering JCKBSE 2020 which took place on August 24 26 2020 JCKBSE 2020 was originally planned to take place in Larnaca Cyprus Unfortunately the COVID 19 pandemic forced it be rescheduled as an online conference JCKBSE is a well established international biennial conference that focuses on the applications of artificial intelligence in software engineering The 2020 edition of the conference was organized by Hiroyuki Nakagawa Graduate School of Information Science and Technology Osaka University Japan and George A Tsihrintzis and Maria Virvou Department of Informatics University of Piraeus Greece This research book is a valuable resource for experts and researchers in the field of knowledge based software engineering as well as general readers in the fields of artificial and computational Intelligence and more generally computer science wanting to learn more about the field of knowledge based software engineering and its applications An extensive list of bibliographic references at the end of each paper helps readers to probe further into the application areas of interest to them
