Sargonic Akkadian Rebecca Hasselbach, 2005 Since the second edition of I J Gelb's Old Akkadian Writing and Grammar in 1961 which is still the standard grammar of Old Akkadian to this day a significant number of new texts from the Old Akkadian period has been discovered and important improvements have been made regarding the analysis of Old Akkadian and Early Semitic grammar particularly phonology and writing The present volume seeks to update our understanding of the syllabically written textual material from the Sargonic period 2350-2100 BCE which contains most of our evidence for the Akkadian used at this period It consists of a detailed investigation of the Sargonic Akkadian syllabary phonology and morphology with specific focus on geographical and dialectal variations that are noticeable in this text corpus but which have not yet been examined thoroughly The grammatical investigation further compares specific linguistic features of this period with the two later Akkadian dialects Babylonian and Assyrian in order to establish the position of the individual sub groups of Sargonic Akkadian within the dialect geography of Akkadian

Diversity and Standardization Eva Cancik-Kirschbaum, Jörg Klinger, Gerfrid G. W. Müller, 2014-02-18 The ancient Near East is a construct defined by present day scientific investigations a construct whose temporal and spatial boundaries are fuzzy constantly shifting under the weight of new empirical data and increasingly sophisticated analytical methods Its objects of investigation even those that have resided in museum collections for generations are in flux as the profound cultural geographical ethnic and social diversity of the ancient Near East threatens to drown out any points of commonality Yet it is these points of commonality that draw us inevitably to questions of Diversity and Standardization as categories for cross cultural and trans historical analysis As we look across the variegated horizons of antiquity do these categories have any real analytical power For instance the introduction of a new system of measurement or bookkeeping technique or even the imposition of a standardized repertoire of pottery forms on a more or less subject population are all examples of the real power of processes of standardization to stabilize territorial political entities The problem must be posed for the ancient Near East at an even more fundamental level however what role do concepts methods of standardization and more generally sign systems play in the reconfiguration and reconstitution of cultural political religious scientific and social spaces This volume results from a symposium under the aegis of the TOPOI Research Cluster a trans disciplinary research center devoted to the investigation of the interdependencies between space and knowledge in the ancient world that brought together leading archaeologists philologists historians and linguists in order to investigate concrete historical examples that speak to questions of Diversity and Standardization in the ancient Near East
