Busch, Often a commitment to large ecosystem initiatives is linked both conceptually and legally with requirements for ecological monitoring as a means of evaluating the effectiveness of management actions Programs to determine ecosystem status and trends can contribute significantly to the resolution of difficult and contentious management questions and can play a key role both in sharpening the focus of research questions and in developing adaptive approaches to resource management Monitoring Ecosystems brings together leading scientists and researchers to offer a groundbreaking synthesis of lessons learned about ecological monitoring in major ecoregional initiatives around the United States Contributors Donald L DeAngelis Lance H Gunderson Barry R Noon John C Ogden Craig J Palmer Keith M Reynolds Paul L Ringold John R Sauer Lawrence E Stevens and many others present insights and experiences gained from their work in designing developing and implementing comprehensive ecosystem monitoring programs in the Pacific Northwest the lower Colorado River Basin and the Florida Everglades The book outlines the conceptual and scientific underpinnings for regional scale ecosystem monitoring examines the role and importance of data management modeling and integrative analyses considers techniques for and experience with monitoring habitats populations and communities Chapters by the editors synthesize and expand on points made throughout the volume and present recommendations for establishing frameworks for monitoring across scales from local to international Monitoring Ecosystems presents a critical examination of the lessons learned from direct experience along with generalized conclusions that can be applied to monitoring programs in the United States and around the world It is a vital contribution to science based monitoring efforts that will allow those responsible for developing and implementing ecoregional initiatives to make use of knowledge gained in previous efforts enabling them to focus their energies on system specific questions and problems Lake Tahoe Watershed Assessment: Untitled, 2000 The Ecology of Seashores George A. Knox, 2000-12-21 The Ecology of Seashores explores the complex shore environment It covers the ways in which representative species have adapted to life in a constantly changing environment in terms of their interactions the control of community structure and how energy and materials are cycled in different ecosystems Written by an eminent marine biologist Insect Populations In theory and in practice Jack P. Dempster, Ian F.G. McLean, 2012-12-06 Insects are by far the largest group of animals on Earth with over a million described species and they occupy a wide range of ecological niches they may be herbivores predators parasites or decomposers Some are of particular economic importance as pests of agriculture and forestry as vectors of animal and human disease or as species of interest to wildlife conservation Thus an understanding of the processes determining their numbers is of considerable practical value Entomologists have played a leading role in developing a theoretical basis to Population Ecology but we still do not have adequate experimental and observational proof for many of the theoretical ideas that have been proposed As a result the subject has been beset with arguments for more than 50 years This volume attempts to reconcile some of these controversies while also reviewing the current state of our knowledge The editors have drawn together an international list of contributors whose views reflect a range of opinions on how natural populations are stabilised They have succeeded in producing a book that both covers the main alternative views in population theory and contains some of the best recent field studies of insect populations This Royal Entomological Society Symposium volume will be of great interest to all entomologists and ecologists particularly those who wish to know more about Population Dynamics The Ecology of Desert Communities Gary A. Polis, 2023-01-10

Provides interesting and thought provoking reading and is highly recommended to anyone interested in desert ecosystems or community ecology The book should serve as an inspiration to many for future research Journal of Biogeography This book is not just about deserts it is an update of the contributions that research in desert systems is making to community ecology This book will provide a useful reference for desert ecologists as well as indicate critical directions where progress needs to be made Ecology This important book fills a significant gap in previous syntheses by presenting a detailed series of reviews of current understanding of community patterns and structure in desert environments Each chapter is thorough and well written and closes with a discussion of suggested future research These ideas will do much to focus interest on the importance of desert systems in understanding community Thus this book has interest well beyond desert ecologists alone BioScience Valuable reading and reference for ecology students teachers and researchers Quarterly Review of Biology

National Library of Medicine Current Catalog National Library of Medicine (U.S.), Predicting Species Occurrences J. Michael Scott, Patricia Heglund, Michael L. Morrison, 2002-02 Predictions about where different species are where they are not and how they move across a landscape or respond to human activities if timber is harvested for instance or stream flow altered are important aspects of the work of wildlife biologists land managers and the agencies and policymakers that govern natural resources Despite the increased use and importance of model predictions these predictions are seldom tested and have unknown levels of accuracy Predicting Species Occurrences addresses those concerns highlighting for managers and researchers the strengths and weaknesses of current approaches as well as the magnitude of the research required to improve or test predictions of currently used models The book is an outgrowth of an international symposium held in October 1999 that brought together scientists and researchers at the forefront of efforts to process information about species at different spatial and temporal scales It is a comprehensive reference that offers an exhaustive treatment of the subject with 65 chapters by leading experts from around the world that review the history of the theory and practice of modeling and present a standard terminology examine temporal and spatial scales in terms of their influence on patterns and processes of species distribution offer detailed discussions of state of the art modeling tools and descriptions of methods for assessing model accuracy discuss how to predict species presence and abundance present examples of how spatially explicit data on demographics can provide important information for managers An introductory chapter by Michael A Huston examines the ecological context in which predictions of species occurrences are made and a concluding chapter by John A Wiens offers an insightful review and synthesis of the topics examined along with guidance for future directions and cautions regarding misuse of models Other contributors include Michael P Austin Barry R Noon Alan H Fielding Michael Goodchild Brian A Maurer John T Rotenberry Paul Angermeier Pierre R Vernier and more than a hundred others Predicting Species Occurrences offers important new information about many of the topics raised in the seminal volume Wildlife 2000 University of Wisconsin Press 1986 and will be the standard reference on this subject for years to come Its state of the art assessment will play a key role in guiding the continued development and application of tools for making accurate predictions and is an indispensable volume for anyone engaged in species management or conservation

The Structural Links between Ecology, Evolution and Ethics Donato Bergandi, 2013-01-06 Evolutionary biology ecology and ethics at first glance three different objects of research three different worldviews and three different scientific communities In reality there are both structural and historical links between these disciplines First some topics are obviously common across the board Second the emerging need for environmental policy management has gradually but radically changed the relationship between these disciplines Over the last decades in particular there has emerged a need for an interconnecting meta paradigm that integrates more strictly evolutionary studies biodiversity studies and the ethical frameworks that are most appropriate for allowing a lasting co evolution between natural and social systems Today such a need is more than a mere luxury it is an epistemological and practical necessity      Predators and Parasitoids Opende Koul, G. S. Dhaliwal, 2003-03-13 Their natural enemies largely determine the population size and dynamic behavior of many plant eating insects Any reduction in enemy number can result in an insect outbreak Applied biological control is thus one strategy for restoring functional biodiversity in many agroecosystems Predators and Parasitoids addresses the role of natural enemies i      Flammulated, Boreal, and Great Gray Owls in the United States Gregory Dale Hayward, 1994      General Technical Report RM., 1994      Design and Evaluation of a Directional Antenna for Ocean Buoys Daniel E. Frye, Kenneth Doherty, Al Hinton, 1997 A system concept has been developed by Viasat Inc and Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution for improving the data telemetry bandwidth available on ocean buoys This concept utilizes existing communications satellites as data relay stations and mechanically steered antenna arrays to achieve increased data rates and improved power efficiency needed for ocean applications This report describes an initial feasibility and design study to determine if a mechanically steered antenna array can meet the requirements of open ocean buoy applications To meet the system requirements an 18 element microstrip antenna 9 element transmit 9 element receive was designed and fabricated under subcontract by Seavey Engineering Associates Inc It operates in the 4.6 GHz frequency band C band and provides 14 dB of gain The % power beamwidth is 150 in azimuth and elevation This antenna design in conjunction with a simple rotating mount was used to evaluate the potential of this approach to keep a geostationary satellite in view when mounted on an ocean buoy The evaluation is based on laboratory measurements using a magnetic compass and a small stepper motor to maintain antenna orientation while the complete assembly was rotated and tilted at speeds similar to what would be expected on an offshore buoy equipped with a stabilizing wind vane      Ecology, Environmental Science and Conservation 2nd Edition JS Singh | SP Singh | SR Gupta | Rishikesh Singh, The updated second edition of the book offers an innovative synthesis of fundamental ecological concepts and practical applications in environmental science and conservation It is the first textbook on the subject by eminent Indian researchers and presents most of the examples from the Indian subcontinent The book covers a wide range of topics including fundamental concepts required to comprehend the physical environment population dynamics community characteristics patterns and gradients in biodiversity ecosystem functioning and dynamics and the study of biogeography It also addresses applied topics such as environmental pollution impact assessment natural resource management biodiversity conservation ecosystem services global climate change ecosystem restoration urban ecology and sustainable development The main issues are discussed within the sustainability framework considering humans as part of ecosystems and recognising that sustainable development requires the integration of ecology with social sciences for policy formulation and implementation The updated edition of the book aligns with the National Education Policy 2020 and the revised UGC Guidelines It aims to meet the needs of students in basic and multidisciplinary courses in ecology and environmental science as well as professionals in agriculture forestry and geography at both the graduate and postgraduate levels
