Economic Development, Poverty, And Income Distribution William Loehr, 2019-04-10 The increasing inequality and poverty that seem inevitably to accompany economic growth in developing countries have become more and more evident in recent years The search for development paths that lead to growth with equality all too difficult to find is now an area of central concern for development economists One result of their concern is this volume in which internationally known representatives of a range of disciplines address themselves to ways in which growth with equity might be successfully achieved The book begins with both empirical and theoretical background to the development issues involved and with an overview of the experience of the international development assistance community focuses on operational definitions of the poor that will permit analytical policy oriented research to lead to useful conclusions Specific concern is expressed for small business owners women peasants and recent migrants from rural to urban areas The basic question of course is what can be done about poverty and inequality includes suggestions for specific measures and provides a comprehensive comparison across a wide range of policy options The book does not solve the problem but it does point to directions that promise a reasonably high probability of success And throughout suggestions are made for the kind of interdisciplinary research required to raise that probability even further

Population Growth, Income Distribution, and Economic Development Nico Heerink, 2012-12-06 In this book a model of long term interrelationships between income distribution population growth and economic development is developed and estimated from data for 54 countries The results indicate that a reduction of income inequality leads to lower fertility and mortality to improved basic needs satisfaction and to lower labour force participation of young and old males and of females in Asia and Africa The effect of income distribution on saving and consumption is found to be negligible These outcomes suggest that family planning and health policies in LDCs will show better results when they are supplemented with policies aimed at making the poor benefit from economic growth As regards development policy the results indicate that a reduction of income inequality does not impair the formation of physical capital but enhances the formation of human capital and lowers the growth rate of the labour force
