

A conceptual illustration showing a group of diverse people of various ages and ethnicities pushing a large, realistic globe up a steep, grassy hill. The globe is tilted, showing continents and oceans. The background features a sunset or sunrise sky with soft, colorful clouds in shades of orange, pink, and yellow. Silhouettes of evergreen trees are visible on the right side of the hill. The overall mood is one of collective effort and global unity.

Snyder, Surakiart Sathirathai, 1987-06-23      Integrating Human Rights into Development Cooperation: The Case of the Lomé Convention Karin Arts, 2021-08-04 Human rights democracy and governance concerns are prominent elements in the development cooperation policy of the European Community The relations between the European Community EC and 71 developing countries in Africa the Caribbean and Pacific ACP have proved to be a laboratory for developing ideas on these matters for translating them into binding treaty norms and for applying them in practice The experiences gained in the ACP EC relationship carry special value because they are the product of dialogue and joint decision making between groups of developed and developing states Therefore 25 years of ACP EC cooperation under the Lom Convention provide a rich learning ground for anybody involved or interested in the debate on linking development cooperation to human rights and to human rights related concerns This book explores the international law aspects of the subject It first investigates the general international legal basis for linking development cooperation to human rights democracy and good governance Both the negative and positive ways of making such a linking by punitive and supportive measures are addressed The book then delves into the evolution of Lom treaty norms on the subject and into the concrete human rights practices that took shape under them It explores the contributions to and influence of both the EC and ACP states on those treaty provisions and practices A comprehensive overview is provided of the support measures and sanctions resorted to in response to the human rights situation in ACP countries The book assesses the overall experiences gained and presents a synthesis of factors that proved to be constraints or conducive to the efforts to integrate human rights fully into ACP EC development cooperation The insights gained could well inform similar efforts undertaken by others

Within international law there is no unified concept of peace This book addresses this gap by considering the liberal conception of peace within Western philosophy alongside the principle of peaceful coexistence supported in the East By tracing the evolution of the international law of peace through its historical and philosophical origins this book investigates whether there is a right to peace The book explores how existing international law and institutions contribute to the establishment of peace or how they fail to do so It sets out how international law promotes the negative dimension of peace the absence of violence as well as its positive dimension the presence of underlying conditions for peace It also investigates whether international actors and institutions have particular obligations in relation to the establishment and maintenance of peace Discussions include the relationships between the different regimes of human rights trade development the environment and regulation of arms trade with peace the role of women refugees and other groups seeking equal treatment the role of peacekeepers transitional justice mechanisms international courts fact finding missions and national constitutional frameworks in upholding peace in practice and how civil society participates in the promotion and safeguarding of peace The book's comprehensive treatment of the concept of peace in international law makes it an ideal reference work for those working in the field as well as for students Minorities and the Making of Postcolonial States in International Law

Mohammad Shahabuddin, 2021-06-10 The ideological function of the postcolonial national liberal and developmental state inflicts various forms of marginalisation on minorities but simultaneously justifies oppression in the name of national unity equality and non discrimination and economic development International law plays a central role in the ideological making of the postcolonial state in relation to postcolonial boundaries the liberal individualist architecture of rights and the neoliberal economic vision of development In this process international law subjugates minority interests and in turn aggravates the problem of ethno nationalism Analysing the geneses of ethno nationalism in postcolonial states Mohammad Shahabuddin substantiates these arguments with in depth case studies on the Rohingya and the hill people of the Chittagong Hill Tracts against the historical backdrop of the minority question in Indian nationalist and constitutional discourse Shahabuddin also proposes alternative international law frameworks for minorities International Law and Transition to Peace in Colombia César Rojas-Orozco, 2021-07-05 In International Law and Transition to Peace in Colombia César Rojas Orozco analyses the role of international law in transition from armed conflict to peace by using the analytical framework of jus post bellum and Colombia as a case study While contemporary attention to jus post bellum has focused on its theoretical development and regarding international warfare this book is the first work to comprehensively assess the concept in practice and in the context of a non international armed conflict Discussing the creative formulas adopted in Colombia to conciliate international legal requirements and the practical needs of peace the book offers concrete elements to understand the concept of jus post bellum as a framework to guide other transitions around the world

The Roles of International Law in Development Siobhan McNerney-Lankford,Robert McCorquodale,2023-10-21 The Roles of International Law in Development provides an in depth analysis of the relationship between public international law and development Unlike the existing body of literature on public international law this book investigates how international law and development interact and evaluates the significant and multifaceted roles that international law plays in development Bringing together a collection of perspectives from contributors working across multiple fields the chapters explore the relevance and applicability of international law to particular sectors and issues implicated in development activities This includes chapters on human rights gender equality race and discrimination environmental law and climate change forced displacement and migration and international trade and investment They analyse how international law rules and processes can influence procedural and substantive aspects of development policies as these regulate various forms of financial support trade technical assistance and policy dialogue They also explore whether and how development could be more effective and yield more equitable and sustainable outcomes if the relevant and applicable rules of international law were better understood consistently incorporated and appropriately applied to development activities A foundational premise of this book is that development policy and practice should be grounded more systematically in international law rejecting the notion that development law and policy comprise a self contained regime or that development is undertaken in a legal vacuum The proposed systematic grounding in public international law would in turn help uphold international legal accountability in the context of development activities
