Economic Policies In Canada:

Economic Policies in Canada Ingrid A. Bryan, 1982      Capital Transfers and Economic Policy: Canada, 1951-1962
Richard E. Caves, Grant L. Reuber, 1971 Between 1951 and 1962 nearly ten billion dollars in long term capital both direct investment and purchase of securities flowed into Canada This massive amount represented one third of all long term capital moving among industrial nations Its transfer marked the first time since before World War I that the world witnessed such a large scale international movement of capital motivated primarily by a prospect of higher rates of return In Capital Transfers and Economic Policy the authors test the theory of the causes and effects of international capital movements against the evidence drawn from Canada's experience They explore Canada's adjustment to capital flows and show how the operation of her economic policy is affected by the sensitivity of capital flows to the country's interest rates and foreign exchange rate Their brilliant analysis is particularly valuable in light of current trends in capital flows among industrial nations and the June 1970 return of the Canadian dollar to a flexible exchange rate which put the economy in a working situation similar to that of the fifties

Canadian Foreign Policy and International Economic Regimes A. Claire Cutler, 2011-11-01 As the world economy is becoming increasingly global in nature the future of Canada's welfare will directly depend on the country's response and reaction to a wide range of economic regimes which govern the international economy This volume is an important and timely analysis of past and current Canadian policies toward both the formal and less formal arrangements which regulate such areas as international trade and financial transactions international service industries fisheries resources and the environment Often influenced by domestic political concerns and its relations with the United States Canada has as the authors point out exhibited a high degree of variation in its responses to these regimes Canadian Foreign Policy and International Economic Regimes addresses a broad range of foreign economic policies not generally considered in the foreign policy literature Interdisciplinary in its approach it will be of interest to those in political science and public policy economics and law as well as to those involved in international business

Canadian Economic Policy and the Impact of International Capital Flows Richard E. Caves, Grant L. Reuber, 1969-12-15 The object of this study is to investigate the effects that complete and formal integration of the Canadian with the American capital market would have on the Canadian economy It is based largely on recent trade statistics particularly those of the period when the exchange rate floated In summary the short and long run effects could both be beneficial to Canada This study is a convenient summary of a longer work by the same authors to be published in 1970

Canada in a Wider Economic Community H. Edward English, Bruce W. Wilkinson, H.C. Eastman, 1972-12-15 The Private Planning Association of Canada initiated the Atlantic Economic Studies Program to study the implications for Canada of trade liberalization and closer economic integration among the nations bordering the North Atlantic Over twenty studies by leading economists which point out the significance of international trade for the structure and growth of the Canadian economy have been published in a series of thirteen volumes This is the last in the series and it summarizes the conclusions expressed in the previous studies in chapters dealing with such topics as the growth of world markets and changing trade patterns free trade alternatives for Canada and the structure of the Canadian economy     International Economic Policies William Smith Culbertson,1925     Interregional Migration and Public Policy in Canada Kathleen Mary Day,Stanley L. Winer,2012 Given Canada s vast geography and uneven distribution of economic activity almost all Canadians have at one time or another faced the question of whether an interprovincial move would make them better off Using a unique dataset based on income tax records authors Kathleen Day and Stanley Winer examine the factors influencing the decision to migrate within Canada paying special attention to the role of regional variation in the generosity of public policies including unemployment insurance taxation and public expenditure the influence of extraordinary events such as the election of a separatist government in Quebec and the closure of the east coast cod fishery is also considered They look at why we ought to be concerned about public policies that interfere with market based incentives to move provide a wealth of information on interregional differences in public policies and market conditions and examine what other researchers have discovered about fiscally induced migration culminating in a discussion of the likely impact of various policy changes on migration and provincial unemployment rates the authors assessment of the lessons to be learned from their own and past research on policy induced migration in Canada will be of interest to students of migration and policy makers alike     Macro-economic Policy J. O. N. Perkins,M. D. English,J. P. Nieuwenhuysen,J. W. Rowe,2018-10-24 When it was first published in 1972 this was the first book to analyze the experience of Australia Canada New Zealand and South Africa in the field of macro economic policy The characteristics of this group of countries gives them much in common with both industrialized and emerging economies Their experience of economic policy making has therefore an unusually wide relevance     International Education as Public Policy in Canada Merli Tamtik,Roopa Desai Trilokekar,Glen A. Jones,2020-10-07 In the early twenty first century international education emerged as an almost ubiquitous concept within discussions of educational curriculum the objectives of schools universities and colleges and government policies for K 12 and higher education Although far from a new phenomenon many jurisdictions now view international education as a highly competitive global industry This book provides a comprehensive analysis of international education policy in Canada tracing the complex history of when how and why it emerged as a policy area of strategic importance Illuminating a uniquely Canadian perspective influenced by regional interests and federal provincial tensions International Education as Public Policy in Canada addresses challenging questions Why was Canada a latecomer in addressing this policy issue What is the relationship between international education and Canadian immigration policy How did international education develop as a major Canadian industry The resulting essays from leading scholars contribute not only to the growing Canadian literature on international education policy but also to a critical global conversation Contemplating where the Canadian story of international education is headed International Education as Public Policy in

Canada calls for a broader debate on ethical practices in internationalization focusing on inclusion equity compassion and reciprocity

Canadian Economic History William Thomas Easterbrook, Hugh G. J. Aitken, 1988-01-01 Through three centuries of development the history of the Canadian economy reflects the shifting roles of natural resources industrializations and international trade This volume a standard in the field since its initial publication in 1958 presents a comprehensive account of these and other factors in the growth of the Canadian economy from the time of the earliest European expansion into the Americas The authors consider economic organization both on the level of the national economy and on that of the individual business unit Among the subjects examined are the growth of the fur fishing and timber trades the impact of successive wars money and banking the development of railway and canal systems the wheat economy the growth of organized labour and twentieth century patterns of investment and trade The focus throughout is on the role played by business organizations large and small working with government in creating a national economy in Canada
