Preparation of Teachers of the Social Studies for the Secondary Schools Edgar Dawson, Enoch George Payne, James Chidester Egbert, John Charles Muerman, Julia Wade Abbot, Newell Walter Edson, Teresa Bach, Thomas Andrew Storey, Walter Sylvanus Deffenbaugh, Elon Galusha Salisbury, Willard Stanton Small, 1922 The American Secondary School Leonard V. Koos, 1927 Selected references at end of each chapter Library of Congress Subject Headings Library of Congress, Library of Congress. Office for Subject Cataloging Policy, 2012 Investigation of Concentration of Economic Power United States. Congress. House. Temporary National Economic Committee, 1940 Continuation of investigation of economic concentration in industry and commerce pt 5A Contains FTC report on industry monopolistic practices pt 15A Contains report on marketing practices in the retail distribution of motor fuel and motor lubricant products pt 17A Contains replies of oil companies to the committee questionnaire on financial data and related topics Human Capital Formation and Economic Growth in Asia and the Pacific Wendy Dobson, 2013-07-18 The entire planet looks to Asian and other emerging markets to sustain growth momentum as traditional markets in the USA and Europe struggle with the slow and arduous processes of deleveraging after the global financial crisis At the same time there is growing recognition in Asia that the sources of growth must shift to sustain their own growth momentum in the years ahead Heavy reliance on the region's high savings rates and plentiful supplies of low cost labour will have to shift towards increasing the human capital embodied in more educated and skilled labour forces capable of contributing to productivity growth and innovation as future drivers of growth Human Capital Formation and Economic Growth in Asia and the Pacific focuses on why and how countries are making this shift The demographic transition is shown to be a significant factor as ageing populations in Japan South Korea and China manage declining growth in the labour force by stepping up investments in education and by changing policies and institutions Lessons to be learned from these experiences by more youthful populations in Southeast Asia are explored In addition attention is paid to the consequences of cross border differentials in technical knowledge and the quantity and quality of human capital Several implications for public policy and for international cooperation on human capital issues in the Asian region are identified The chapters in this volume are edited versions of papers presented at the 35th Pacific Trade and Development conference held in Vancouver Canada in June 2012 The conference goal was to better understand how governments and business in Asia and the Pacific can apply the key insight that one of the reasons economies grow is because of human capital formation the quality and diversity of the labour force are augmented not just because the labour force grows in size Students of Asia's growth prospects will find several aspects of this volume of particular value It includes chapters on the big picture conceptual and measurement issues on country experiences in meeting the imperatives of the demographic transition and investing in education and skills training and on country experiences with attracting foreign knowledge and the supply and recruitment of skills across borders in Asia and the Pacific Policymakers will also find useful the discussions of policy implications and the menu of issues requiring intergovernmental cooperation within the Asian region Creating a Curriculum for Adolescent Youth National Education Association of the United States. Research Division,1928 An International Perspective on Economic Education William B. Walstad,2012-12-06 Economics is taught in some form in the secondary schools of nations throughout the world The subject is rarely taught in elementary schools and while economics courses are offered in universities the majority of students end their formal education with secondary school Thus the best opportunity for the economic education of the youth of a nation occurs in secondary schools This book examines economic education at this critical level of the educational system The teaching of economics in secondary schools varies across countries These differences occur because of history the structure of education and other national factors At the same time there are common elements in the economic education of many countries especially in content coverage This contrast between the common features and the uniqueness of economic education in secondary schools of major industrial nations exemplifies the international perspective presented in this book The international perspective is developed in the six sections of the volume The first section discusses why nations should include economics in school curricula and presents a framework for teaching economics that should have global appeal Dissension and consensus on economic issues among North American and European economists are examined in the second section The third section surveys the U S research literature on precollege economic education and assesses the current state of economics instruction in U S schools The economics curricula and educational practices in seven other nations the U K Canada Japan Germany Austria Korea and Australia are described in the fourth and fifth sections The fifth section also presents international comparisons of economic understanding based on national testing in six of those nations The sixth and final section explores the role of economic education in centrally planned economies and its effects on the transition to a market economy using Russia Bulgaria and China as case studies Circular - Office of Education United States. Division of Field Studies, 1926 Home Economics in the Public Secondary Schools United States. Education Office, 1962 Misc , 1943 The Economic Impact of Government Policy on China's Private Higher Education Sector Xiaoying Ma, 2021-02-03 This book provides an overview of the growth of the private higher education sector in China and in addition provides an analysis of some of the key drivers of this growth and impediments to it What is new about the book is that it combines the results of a series of interviews with work that is more quantitative in nature The book is of use to not only those engaged in academic research but also those who more generally wish to know more about an educational sector that is growing in importance The most obvious factors promoting expansion of this sector have been the growth in per capita incomes higher levels of participation in secondary school education the strong growth in demand for graduates and the inability of the public sector to keep pace with demand All of these factors intermingled with the involvement of government regulation This regulation however is not uniform across all of China given the different provincial government departments of education that are also involved in dealing with private higher education institutions In particular this book looks at the way in which the Chinese government's regulatory framework both national and provincial influenced the development of the sector and the way in which it operates especially the private higher education component of that sector The analysis undertaken finds that there is a link between regulation and the private higher education sector growth and a link between the funding of the government sector The more intense regulation was and the more funds provided to the state sector the less scope there was for the private sector to expand Growth of the private sector therefore did not just depend upon rising demand for higher education overall but also to a fair degree of tolerance on the part of government Much of this work in subsequent years has been supported by the further changes that have been undertaken in the Chinese higher education sector Over the years the growth of the Chinese higher education sector has stabilised as has the private segment of this sector
