

The background of the cover is a light grey with faint, white architectural line drawings. At the top, there is a long, multi-story building with several windows. Below it, on the left, is a large rectangular building with a smaller structure attached to its side. To the right of this is another building with a more complex, stepped profile. At the bottom, there are more drawings of industrial structures, including what looks like a large rectangular tank or silo and some smaller buildings. The overall style is technical and architectural.
