Prada-Samper, 2025-03-12 That summer afternoon I had no way of knowing the book would radically alter my existence Yet that proved to be the case A wind that had begun to blow from a faraway place a long time ago had finally caught up with me So writes folklorist Jos Manuel de Prada Samper about a chance discovery more than thirty years ago of an obscure book called Specimens of Bushman Folklore in a second hand bookshop in England Part historical detective story part memoir Fading Footprints traces the author's journey into the magical folklore of the xam hunter gatherers of the Upper Karoo Through archival research and on field trips in South Africa de Prada Samper reveals the tragic scope of the genocide of the xam San by European colonisers However he is also able to humanise the xam as he delves into the work and lives of researchers Wilhelm Bleek and Lucy Lloyd who recorded the stories of San prisoners in Cape Town over more than a decade in the late 1800s Determined to seek out the ancient folklore tales the author travels to forgotten corners of the Northern Cape There he learns that many stories are still told to this day by farm workers and that contrary to common belief the culture and traditions of South Africa's first people are still very much alive. Their footprints may have faded but they have not been erased.
