For Love Of The Land:

For Love of the Land Lois Christiansen Eagleton, 2008-11 Mildred Kanipe was a strong willed woman with set ideas Nobody told her what to do or how to do it When they tried she just smiled and said That s interesting and went ahead and did it her way Mildred carried a pistol except when she was at home on the ranch There she carried a 30 30 rifle She never married and except for an occasional hired hand she ran her almost 1 100 acre ranch by herself All who knew her agree she was an unforgettable character When she died she left her beloved ranch the part her family had owned and farmed for over one hundred years and that she had purchased with her own hard work to the people of Douglas County Oregon for a park This is the story of Mildred the history of the land she loved and the people who came before and after her For Love of the Land Andrea Sutton, 2023-02-28 Life has not gone as planned for Ariadne Her once hopeful marriage has failed and her husband has died of cancer While some may take solace in their children her son proves suicidal and has violent urges that are increasingly troubling Love for the Land Brooks Lamb, 2023-07-25 A moving exploration of presence and place told through the stories of small scale farmers who despite intense adversity continue caring for their land Love for the Land explores the power and potential of people place relationships Through clear and compelling prose it elevates the virtues of imagination affection and fidelity concepts promoted by farmer writer Wendell Berry and shows how they motivate small and mid scale farmers to care for the land even in the face of adversity Paying particular attention to farmland loss from suburban sprawl rampant agricultural consolidation and for farmers of color racial injustice Brooks Lamb reckons with the harsh realities that these farmers face Drawing from in depth interviews and hands on experiences in two changing rural communities he shares stories and sacrifices from dozens of farmers local leaders agricultural service providers and land conservationists Lamb s rural roots and farming background enable him to cultivate honest trusting connections with the farmers he engages yielding raw and powerful insights Time and again compelling evidence reveals that stewardship virtues encourage people to live and act as devoted caretakers With a refreshing accessible and engaging approach Lamb argues that these resilient and often overlooked farmers show rural and urban people alike a way forward one that serves people places and the planet That path is rooted in love for the land For Love of Country: A Story of Land and Sea in the Days of the Revolution Cyrus Townsend Brady, 2020-09-28 If Seymour could have voiced his thought he would have said that the earth itself did not afford a fairer picture than that which lay within the level radius of his vision and which had imprinted itself so powerfully upon his impressionable and youthful heart It was not the scenery of Virginia either the landscape on the Potomac of which he would have spoken so enthusiastically though even that were a thing not to be disdained by such a lover of the beautiful as Seymour had shown himself to be the dry brown hills rising in swelling slopes from the edge of the wide quiet river the bare and leafless trees upon their crests now scarce veiling the comfortable old white house which in the summer they quite concealed beneath their masses of foliage and all the world lying dreamy and calm and still in the motionless haze of one of those rare seasons in November which so suggests departed days that men name it summer again For all that he then saw in nature was but a setting for a woman even the sun itself low in the west robbed of its glory and faded into a dull red ball seeking to hide its head but served to throw into high relief the noble and beautiful face of the girl upon whom he gazed the girl who was sun and life and light and world for him The most confirmed misogynist would have found it difficult to challenge her claim to beauty and yet it would require a more severe critic or a sterner analyst than a lover would be likely to prove to say in just what point could be found that which would justify the claim Was it in the mass of light wavy brown hair springing from a low point on her forehead and gently rippling back which she wore plaited and tied with a ribbon and destitute of powder How sweetly simple it looked to him after the bepowdered and betowered misses of the town with whom he was most acquainted Was it in the broad low brow or the brown almost black eyes which laughed beneath it or the very fair complexion which seemed to him a strangely delightful and unusual combination Or was it in the perfection of a faultless if somewhat slender and still undeveloped figure half concealed by the vivid Cardinal cloak she wore which one little hand held loosely together about her while the other dabbled in the water by her side Be this as it may the whole impression she produced was one which charmed and fascinated to the last degree and Mistress Katharine Wilton's sway among the young men of the colony was well nigh undisputed A toast and a belle in half Virginia Seymour was not the first nor was he destined to be the last of her adorers For Love of the Land R.
