emphasizes the role of the entire food chain highlighting different kinds of environmental impacts affecting climate change. On the other side, temperature changes and variations of precipitation patterns together with extreme weather events and water reduction are recognized as predictors for producing less food, decreased food quality, new food safety risks, biodiversity losses, and depletion of resources associated with food production in modified circumstances. Last but not least, these effects introduce new threats known as food security, where some assumptions stress that almost one billion of people are hungry, not receiving enough food as a result of climate changes. As a result, the UN highlights the need for combating climate change and promotes sustainable food consumption and production. Based on the perceived need to promote and disseminate information on climate change related to food system, the Handbook of Climate change across the food supply chain is being produced. The publication compiles information, experiences, practical initiatives, and projects around the subject matter and makes it available to a wide audience. It is expected that the Handbook of Climate change across the food supply chain makes many benefits of climate service clearer and inter alia leads to an increase in the demand for such important services.
