For Blacks Only Black Strategies For Cha:

Policy Implementation of Social Welfare in the 1980s Frederick A. Lazin, With its highly centralized political institutions Israel is typical of the unitary nonfederal political systems in the world. On the other hand with its growing emphasis on federalism the United States reveals the functions and dysfunctions of the pluralist system. In this provocative book Frederick Lazin compares the two types of political systems to show how municipalities in Israel as in the United States exert considerable influence on implementation of national domestic policies. He argues convincingly that unitary systems have many of the same difficulties that their federal counterparts have in implementing social welfare policies. This study provides a theoretical basis for understanding how administrative institutional system and socioeconomic status variables affect the potential influence of municipalities and make implementation of policies so problematic. It develops a model for policy implementation in unitary systems which then serves as a framework of analysis for a series of case studies of social welfare education and health policy in Israel. Comparisons are then made with the federal political system of the United States in which the national government needs the cooperation of local authorities to implement its policies. Reference is made to federal housing policies and programs for low income Americans. Similarities as well as differences are noted between the two systems in order to reach conclusions about policy implementation regardless of type of political system. The book contributes both to the general literature on policy implementation as well as to the politics of unitary versus federal systems. It provides a unique and important analysis of problems confronting both types of system in the area of policy implementation of social welfare programs which remain important concerns in political systems throughout the world.

Toxic Communities Dorceta E. Taylor, 2014 From St Louis to New Orleans from Baltimore to Oklahoma City there are poor and minority neighborhoods so beset by pollution that just living in them can be hazardous to your health. Due to entrenched segregation zoning ordinances that privilege wealthier communities or because businesses have found the O'Connell paths of least resistance OCO there are many hazardous waste and toxic facilities in these communities leading residents to experience health and wellness problems on top of the race and class discrimination most already experience. Taking stock of the recent environmental justice scholarship a Toxic Communities examines the connections among residential segregation zoning and exposure to environmental hazards. Renowned environmental sociologist Dorceta Taylor focuses on the locations of hazardous facilities in low income and minority communities and shows how they have been dumped on contaminated and exposed. Drawing on an array of historical and contemporary case studies from across the country Taylor explores controversies over racially motivated decisions in zoning laws eminent domain government regulation or lack thereof and urban renewal. She provides a comprehensive overview of the debate over whether or not there is a link between environmental transgressions and discrimination drawing a clear picture of the state of the environmental justice field today and where it is going. In doing so she introduces new concepts and theories for understanding environmental racism that will be essential for environmental justice scholars A fascinating landmark study A Toxic Communities greatly contributes to the study of race the environment and space in the contemporary United States

Blueprint for Disaster D. Bradford Hunt, 2009-08-01 Now considered a dysfunctional mess Chicago s public housing projects once had long waiting lists of would be residents hoping to leave the slums behind So what went wrong To answer this complicated question D Bradford Hunt traces public housing s history in Chicago from its New Deal roots through current mayor Richard M Daley s Plan for Transformation In the process he chronicles the Chicago Housing Authority s own transformation from the city s most progressive government agency to its largest slumlord Challenging explanations that attribute the projects decline primarily to racial discrimination and real estate interests Hunt argues that well intentioned but misguided policy decisions ranging from design choices to maintenance contracts also paved the road to failure Moreover administrators who fully understood the potential drawbacks did not try to halt such deeply flawed projects as Cabrini Green and the Robert Taylor Homes These massive high rise complexes housed unprecedented numbers of children but relatively few adults engendering disorder that pushed out the working class and consequently the rents needed to maintain the buildings The resulting combination of fiscal crisis managerial incompetence and social unrest plunged the CHA into a quagmire from which it is still struggling to emerge Blueprint for Disaster then is an urgent reminder of the havoc poorly conceived policy can wreak on our most vulnerable citizens

Crossing the Class and Color Lines Leonard S. Rubinowitz, James E. Rosenbaum, 2002-04-15 Thousands of low income African Americans mostly women and children began in 1976 to move out of Chicago s notorious public housing developments to its mostly white middle class suburbs They were part of the Gautreaux program one of the largest court ordered desegregation efforts in the country s history Named for the Chicago activist Dorothy Gautreaux the program formally ended in 1998 but is destined to play a vital role in national housing policy in years to come In this book Leonard Rubinowitz and James Rosenbaum tell the story of this unique experiment in racial social and economic integration and examine the factors involved in implementing and sustaining mobility based programs Today with vouchers replacing public housing the Gautreaux success story with its strong legacy is the most valuable record of the possibilities for poor people to enhance their life chances by relocating to places where opportunities are greater Book Jacket

The Business of Black Power Laura Warren Hill, Julia Rabig, 2012 Explores business development in the Black power era and the centrality of economic goals to the larger black freedom movement The Business of Black Power emphasizes the centrality of economic goals to the larger black freedom movement and explores the myriad forms of business development in the Black power era This volume charts a new course for Black power studies and business history exploring both the business ventures that Black power fostered and the impact of Black power on the nation's business world Black activists pressed business leaders corporations and various levels of government into supporting a range of economic development ventures from Black entrepreneurship to grassroots experiments in economic self determination to indigenous attempts to rebuild inner city markets in the wake of disinvestment They pioneered new economic and development strategies often in concert with corporate executives and public officials Yet these same actors also engaged in fierce debates over the role of business in strengthening the movement and some African Americans outright rejected capitalism or collaboration with business The ten scholars in this collection bring fresh analysis to this complex intersection of African American and business history to reveal how Black power advocates or those purporting a Black power agenda engaged business to advance their economic political and social goals They show the business of Black power taking place in the streets boardrooms journals and periodicals corporations courts and housing projects of America In short few were left untouched by the influence of this movement Laura Warren Hill is assistant professor of history at Bloomfield College Julia Rabig is a lecturer at Dartmouth College

Not Alms but Opportunity Touré F. Reed, 2009-06-01 Illuminating the class issues that shaped the racial uplift movement Toure Reed explores the ideology and policies of the national New York and Chicago Urban Leagues during the first half of the twentieth century Reed argues that racial uplift in the Urban League reflected many of the class biases pervading contemporaneous social reform movements resulting in an emphasis on behavioral rather than structural remedies to the disadvantages faced by Afro Americans Reed traces the Urban League's ideology to the famed Chicago School of Sociology The Chicago School offered Leaguers powerful scientific tools with which to foil the thrust of eugenics However Reed argues concepts such as ethnic cycle and social disorganization and reorganization led the League to embrace behavioral models of uplift that reflected a deep circumspection about poor Afro Americans and fostered a preoccupation with the needs of middle class blacks According to Reed the League's reform endeavors from the migration era through World War II oscillated between projects to adjust or even contain unacculturated Afro Americans and projects intended to enhance the status of the Afro American middle class Reed's analysis complicates the mainstream account of how particular class concerns and ideological influences shaped the League's vision of group advancement as well as the consequences of its endeavors      Class Warfare in Black Atlanta Augustus Wood,2025-05-27 Between 1966 and 2015 the city of Atlanta was transformed In the late 1960s Black politicians ascended to the top of the power structure for the first time thanks to newly enfranchised Black working class voters Through the early 1970s the demographics of the city shifted and the combination of Black empowerment and white flight produced a growing Black working class majority that increasingly demanded Black Power policies that often clashed with the policies supported by affluent residents But by the 2010s Atlanta s city core had been thoroughly gentrified and the ability of Black working class Atlantans to organize and build power had diminished significantly Tracing the history of post civil rights Black Atlanta through rigorous class analysis Augustus Wood argues that Black and white elites responded to an energized and politicized Black working class by forging a public private partnership power bloc that included the small but growing Black political leadership expanding the racial class contradictions in Black Atlanta This bloc worked to shift state funding away from public services and toward gentrification projects that demolished subsidized housing and it ramped up police surveillance to deter working class resistance Paying close attention to political economy and class while drawing on unexamined archival sources and oral histories of Black working class Atlantans especially Black women Wood reframes our understanding of contemporary Black urban life by highlighting the centrality of the dynamics of intraracial class conflict in urban space      Making the Second Ghetto Arnold R. Hirsch,2021-04-06 First published in 1983 and praised by the likes of Ta Nehisi Coates and Thomas Sugrue Arnold R Hirsch s Making the Second Ghetto is the rare book that has only become more piercingly prescient over the years Hirsch s classic and groundbreaking work of urban history is a revelatory look at Chicago in the decades after the Great Depression a period when the city dealt with its rapidly growing Black population not by working to abolish its stark segregation but by expanding and solidifying it Even as the civil rights movement rose to prominence Chicago exploited a variety of methods of segregation including riots redevelopment and a host of new legal frameworks that provided a national playbook for the emergence of a new kind of entrenched inequality Hirsch s chronicle of the strategies employed by ethnic political and business interests in reaction to the Great Migration of Southern Blacks in the mid twentieth century makes startlingly clear how the violent reactions of an emergent white population found common ground with policy makers to segregate first a city and then the nation This enlarged edition of Making the Second Ghetto features a visionary afterword by historian N D B Connolly explaining why Hirsch s book still crackles with blistering relevance for contemporary readers      The Dignity of Resistance Roberta M. Feldman,Susan Stall,2004-02-09 The Dignity of Resistance chronicles the four decade history of Chicago s Wentworth Gardens public housing residents grassroots activism This comprehensive case study explores why and how these African American women creatively and effectively engaged in organizing efforts to resist increasing government disinvestment in public housing and the threat of demolition Roberta M Feldman and Susan Stall utilizing a multi disciplinary lens explore the complexity and resourcefulness of Wentworth women s grassroots organizing the ways in which their identities as poor

African American women and mothers both circumscribe their lives and shape their resistance Through the inspirational voices of the activists Feldman and Stall challenge portrayals of public housing residents as passive alienated victims of despair We learn instead how women residents collectively have built a cohesive vital community cultivated outside technical assistance organizational and institutional supports and have attracted funding all to support the local facilities services and programs necessary for the everyday needs for survival and ultimately to save their home from demolition Urban and Regional Policies for Metropolitan Livability Michael S Hamilton, Patricia Sue Atkins, 2014-12-18 In today's public policy arena the regional level is gaining increased attention as problems in policy and service delivery continue to spill over traditional urban government boundaries This authoritative work focuses on the growing role of regions in addressing and resolving local governance problems Urban and Regional Policies for Metropolitan Livability provides a concise up to date and systematic treatment of the problems and issues involved in urban and regional policy concerns Each policy chapter is written by a respected expert in the area and the book covers all the key policy issues that confront contemporary metropolitan areas including transportation the environment affordable housing crime employment poverty education and regional governance Each chapter outlines an issue which is followed by current thinking on problem diagnosis and problem solving as well as the prognosis for future policy success The Art of Revitalization Sean Zielenbach, 2002-05-03 This book discusses the revitalization of decayed inner city neighborhoods It explores the role of social capital in stabilizing and turning around distressed communities and it highlights the roles that local actors can and do play in the revitalization process The Art of Revitalization takes two Chicago neighborhoods Englewood and North Lawndale as case studies Zielenbach discusses them in the context of racial change and urban decay in Chicago since World War II The account of the changing neighborhoods is fascinating and clear and the strength of the author's portrayal of Chicago's transformation sets the stage for his detailed analysis What Parish Are You From? Eileen M. McMahon, 2014-07-11 For Irish Americans as well as for Chicago's other ethnic groups the local parish once formed the nucleus of daily life Focusing on the parish of St Sabina's in the southwest Chicago neighborhood of Auburn Gresham Eileen McMahon takes a penetrating look at the response of Catholic ethnics to life in twentieth century America She reveals the role the parish church played in achieving a cohesive and vital ethnic neighborhood and shows how ethno religious distinctions gave way to racial differences as a central point of identity and conflict For most of this century the parish served as an important mechanism for helping Irish Catholics cope with a dominant Protestant American culture Anti Catholicism in the society at large contributed to dependency on parishes and to a desire for separateness from the American mainstream As much as Catholics may have wanted to insulate themselves in their parish communities however Chicago demographics and the fluid nature of the larger society made this ultimately impossible Despite efforts at integration attempted by St Sabina's liberal clergy white parishioners viewed black migration into their neighborhood as a threat to their way of life and resisted it even as they relocated to the suburbs The transition from white to black neighborhoods and parishes is a major theme of twentieth century urban history The experience of St Sabina s which changed from a predominantly Irish parish to a vibrant African American Catholic community provides insights into this social trend and suggests how the interplay between faith and ethnicity contributes to a resistance to change      Scattered-site Housing James Hogan,1996      Purging the Poorest Lawrence J. Vale,2024-05-31

The building and management of public housing is often seen as a signal failure of American public policy but this is a vastly oversimplified view In Purging the Poorest Lawrence J Vale offers a new narrative of the seventy five year struggle to house the deserving poor In the 1930s two iconic American cities Atlanta and Chicago demolished their slums and established some of this country s first public housing Six decades later these same cities also led the way in clearing public housing itself Vale s groundbreaking history of these twice cleared communities provides unprecedented detail about the development decline and redevelopment of two of America s most famous housing projects Chicago s Cabrini Green and Atlanta s Techwood Clark Howell Homes Vale offers the novel concept of design politics to show how issues of architecture and urbanism are intimately bound up in thinking about policy Drawing from extensive archival research and in depth interviews Vale recalibrates the larger cultural role of public housing revalues the contributions of public housing residents and reconsiders the role of design and designers      American Intergovernmental Relations Laurence J. O'Toole,1985 American Intergovernmental Relations a collection of 41 readings deals with a variety of questions relating to the challenges of a network of more than 80 000 governments including federal state county municipal and special district units functioning effectively The nature of federalism the roles played by public interest lobbying groups the politics and economics of various grants and revenue sharing programs the cities experiences in implementing programs the impact of changing administrations and policy goals and the trend toward contracting out of public services are some of the topics presented The articles offer students a firm grounding in the fundamental arrangements of the intergovernmental system as well as the opportunity to explore contemporary issues      Strategic Sisterhood Rebecca Tuuri,2018-04-09 When women were denied a major speaking role at the 1963 March on Washington Dorothy Height head of the National Council of Negro Women NCNW organized her own women s conference for the very next day Defying the march s male organizers Height helped harness the womanpower waiting in the wings Height s careful tactics and quiet determination come to the fore in this first history of the NCNW the largest black women s organization in the United States at the height of the civil rights Black Power and feminist movements of the 1960s and 1970s Offering a sweeping view of the NCNW s behind the scenes efforts to fight racism poverty and sexism in the late twentieth century Rebecca Tuuri examines how the group teamed with U S presidents foundations and grassroots activists alike to implement a number of important domestic development and international aid projects Drawing on original interviews extensive organizational records and other rich sources Tuuri s work narrates the achievements of a set of seemingly moderate elite activists who were able to use their personal financial and social connections to push for change as they facilitated grassroots cooperative and radical activism
