But come the twenty first century increasing numbers of men are tending babies sometimes right from birth How can this be happening Puzzled and dazzled by the tender expertise of new fathers around the world several in her own family celebrated evolutionary anthropologist and primatologist Sarah Blaffer Hrdy set out to trace the deep history of male nurturing and explain a surprising departure from everything she had assumed to be normal In Father Time Hrdy draws on a wealth of research to argue that this ongoing transformation in men is not only cultural but profoundly biological Men in prolonged intimate contact with babies exhibit responses nearly identical to those in the bodies and brains of mothers They develop caring potential few realized men possessed In her quest to explain how men came to nurture babies Hrdy travels back through millions of years of human primate and mammalian evolution then back further still to the earliest vertebrates all while taking into account recent economic and social trends and technological innovations and incorporating new findings from neuroscience genetics endocrinology and more The result is a masterful synthesis of evolutionary and historical perspectives that expands our understanding of what it means to be a man and what the implications might be for society and our species
