Federal Aid to Depressed Areas Sar A. Levitan,1964 Federal Aid to Depressed Areas Sar A. Levitan,Professor Sara A Levitan,Professor Sara Levitan,1964-05 Monthly Labor Review United States. Bureau of Labor Statistics,1973
Publishes in depth articles on labor subjects current labor statistics information about current labor contracts and book reviews Bureaucratic Failure and Public Expenditure William Spangar Peirce,2013-10-22 Bureaucratic Failure and Public Expenditure was written to address the question Once a law is passed under what conditions will the bureaucracy fail to give the political leaders exactly what they ordered The book deals explicitly with the federal government of the United States Certain aspects of the theory could be applied to other large organizations or to other governments and times but these are separate task The book is organized into three parts Part I is based on a literature survey that roams widely through economics political science sociology public administration and various related bodies of knowledge Although much of this was unfamiliar terrain for an economist the route was defined by the objective of identifying the conditions predisposing to failure Part II contains 11 brief case studies that are based on reports by the United States General Accounting Office Relying on this source permitted coverage of a broad selection of the nonmilitary activities of the government Part III reexamines the hypotheses developed from the literature in the light of the cases and other studies of implementation The final chapter consists of the author s reflections on the implications of bureaucratic failure Hearings, Reports and Prints of the Senate Committee on Government Operations United States. Congress. Senate. Committee on Government Operations,1970 The Face of Decline Thomas L. Dublin,Walter Licht,2016-11-15 The anthracite coal region of Pennsylvania once prospered Today very little mining or industry remains although residents have made valiant efforts to restore the fabric of their communities In The Face of Decline the noted historians Thomas Dublin and Walter Licht offer a sweeping history of this area over the course of the twentieth century Combining business labor social political and environmental history Dublin and Licht delve into coal communities to explore grassroots ethnic life and labor activism economic revitalization and the varied impact of economic decline across generations of mining families The Face of Decline also features the responses to economic crisis of organized capital and labor local business elites redevelopment agencies and state and federal governments Dublin and Licht draw on a remarkable range of sources oral histories and survey questionnaires documentary photographs the records of coal companies local governments and industrial development corporations federal censuses and community newspapers The authors examine the impact of enduring economic decline across a wide region but focus especially on a small group of mining communities in the region s Panther Valley from Jim Thorpe through Lansford to Tamaqua The authors also place the anthracite region within a broader conceptual framework comparing anthracite s decline to parallel developments in European coal basins and Appalachia and to deindustrialization in the United States more generally Communities Left Behind Gregory S. Wilson,2009 Throughout this terrific book

Wilson places this government agency its creation its lifespan and achievements and its mixed legacies in the broader context of postwar American history and more specifically the history of employment policy Jason Scott Smith author of Building New Deal Liberalism The Political Economy of Public Works 1933 1956 With clarity and insight Gregory S Wilson recounts the story of the Area Redevelopment Administration and connects a nearly forgotten piece of American employment history to national and transnational developments in the making of social policy in the years between the New Deal and the Great Society Communities Left Behind demonstrates how the United States has since the Great Depression tried but failed to address the nation s structural inequalities and it reopens discussions about poverty and economic dislocation in a period when the country is facing new economic challenges The ARA was created in 1961 and remained in operation until 1965 Its goal was to assist communities especially economically distressed ones in rural or undeveloped areas of the country in generating employment opportunities Unstated in the creation of the ARA was its intention to serve as an economic development project mostly for Appalachia and the American South where nearly all of its money was spent Wilson argues that the ARA was doomed to fail from the beginning because of the requirement that federal officials not interfere with state and local priorities It simply was not possible to implement a federal initiative in the South without running afoul of local interests And to further complicate matters the issue of race loomed in the background when ARA policies aimed to improve employment opportunities for black southerners they were invariably sabotaged by racist politics This ambivalent legacy of the ARA is alive today Wilson suggests as areas of the nation that have struggled economically since the agency s original creation including inner cities Native American reservations Appalachia and the rural South continue to founder Gregory S Wilson is associate professor of history at the University of Akron and coeditor of the Northeast Ohio Journal of History
