Climate Resilience for an Aging Nation Danielle Arigoni, 2023-10-23 Climate change is having an immediate and sometimes life threatening impact especially for older adults generally speaking people 65 or older Older adults often face mobility cognitive and resource challenges which contribute to a disproportionate number of deaths in the face of major disasters But some challenges are less visible Consider the grandparent who no longer can stand and wait at the bus stop because of the heat or the retiree who lives in a home with black mold due to chronic flooding that she can t afford to remediate or leave because of her limited fixed income Our population is aging by 2034 the US will have more people over 65 than under 18 Despite the evidence that climate change is severely impacting older adults and the reality that communities will be confronted with more frequent and more severe disasters we re not prepared to address the needs of older adults and other vulnerable populations in the face of a changing climate In Climate Resilience for an Aging Nation community resilience and housing expert Danielle Arigoni argues that we cannot achieve true resilience until communities adopt interventions that work to meet the needs of their oldest residents She explains that when we plan for those most impacted by climate and for those with the greatest obstacles to opportunity and well being we improve conditions for all Arigoni explores how to integrate age friendly resilience into community planning and disaster preparedness efforts through new planning approaches including an age friendly process and a planning framework dedicated to inclusive disaster recovery to create communities that serve the needs of older adults better not only during disasters but for all the days in between Examples are woven throughout the book including case studies of age friendly resilience in action from New York State Portland Oregon and Multnomah County and New Orleans Climate Resilience for an Aging Nation will help professionals and concerned citizens understand how to best plan for both the aging of our population and the climate changes underway so that we can create safer more livable communities for all

The Dispute of the New World Antonello Gerbi, 2010-06-20 Translated by Jeremy Moyle When Hegel described the Americas as an inferior continent he was repeating a contention that inspired one of the most passionate debates of modern times Originally formulated by the eminent natural scientist Georges Louis Leclerc Comte de Buffon and expanded by the Prussian encyclopedist Cornelius de Pauw this provocative thesis drew heated responses from politicians philosophers publicists and patriots on both sides of the Atlantic The ensuing polemic reached its apex in the latter decades of the eighteenth century and is far from extinct today Translated into English in 1973 The Dispute of the New World is the definitive study of this debate Antonello Gerbi scrutinizes each contribution to the debate unravels the complex arguments and reveals their inner motivations As the story of the polemic unfolds moving through many disciplines that include biology economics anthropology theology geophysics and poetry it becomes clear that the subject at issue is nothing less than the totality of the Old World versus the New and how each viewed the other at a vital turning point in history arid areas human health is deteriorating and climate induced migration is already taking place and may increase Successfully reducing social vulnerability to climate change and variability requires action and commitment at multiple levels This volume offers key operational recommendations at the government community and household levels with particular emphasis placed on enhancing good governance and technical capacity in the public sector building social capital in local communities and protecting the asset base of poor households Imperial Gazetteer of India James Sutherland Cotton,Sir William Stevenson Meyer,1909
