Legislature. Assembly,1899 The Politics of Mourning in Early China Miranda Brown,2012-02-01 The Politics of Mourning in Early China reevaluates the longstanding assumptions about early imperial political culture According to most explanations filial piety served as the linchpin of the social and political order as all political relations were a seamless extension of the relationship between father and son a relationship that was hierarchical paternalistic and personal Offering a new perspective on the mourning practices and funerary monuments of the Han dynasty Miranda Brown asks whether the early imperial elite did in fact imagine political participation solely along the lines of the father son relationship or whether there were alternative visions of political association The early imperial elite held remarkably varied and contradictory beliefs about political life and they had multiple templates and changing scripts for political action This book documents and explains such diversity and variation and shows that the Han dynasty practice of mourning expressed many visions of political life visions that left lasting legacies The Ante-Nicene Fathers Alexander Roberts,2007-05-01 One of the first great events in Christian history was the Council of Nicaea in 325 AD convened to organize Christian sects and beliefs into a unified doctrine The great Christian clergymen who wrote before this famous event are referred to as the Ante Nicenes and the Apostolic Fathers and their writings are collected here in a ten volume set The Ante Nicenes lived so close to the time of Christ that their interpretations of the New Testament are considered more authentic than modern voices But they are also real and flawed men who are more like their fellow Christians than they are like the Apostles making their words echo in the ears of spiritual seekers In Volume I of the 10 volume collected works of the Ante Nicenes first published between 1885 and 1896 readers will find the writings of Clement of Rome the fourth pope who was supposedly martyred by being tied to an anchor and tossed overboard Mathetes an anonymous writer considered the first Christian apologist Polycarp a Christian bishop who was stabbed to death after he failed to burn at the stake Ignatius a student of John the Apostle who was Bishop of Antioch before he was killed Barnabas an anonymous writer given the name of Saint Barnabas Papias author of Interpretations of the Sayings of the Lord a textbook on quotes from Jesus Justin Martyr a Christian apologist and accomplished philosopher and Irenaeus disciple of Polycarp apologist and bishop of Lugdunum Biennial Report of the State Board of Control of Wisconsin Reformatory, Charitable, and Penal Institutions Wisconsin.
