Fear Of Violence:

The Moral Psychology of Fear Ami Harbin, 2025-09-18 The Moral Psychology of Fear brings together contemporary philosophers to consider how fear can shape or compromise moral motivation and in particular the ways in which fear might motivate morally and politically troubling actions for individuals and communities While the topics addressed by the chapters vary widely the contributors share a commitment to analyzing the moral significance of fear for motivation action and responsibility in novel and creative ways Edited by Ami Harbin the volume is divided into four parts In Part I authors lay the groundwork for new philosophical analyses of fear by establishing some theoretical considerations about the connection of fear to injustice and the scope of what kinds of experiences count as fear Part II turns to everyday experiences of fear like fear of missing out and fear of one's own death that can have surprising moral implications Part III delves into the way fears have been present in contexts of climate and public health crisis Part IV offers reflections on the complex position of fear in some of the most charged political issues facing communities migration political polarization violence and oppressive ideologies more broadly

The Indonesian Crisis Aris Ananta, 2002-12-05 The book focuses on the impact of the 1997-99 economic crisis on human development in Indonesia especially in 1998 its worst year Based on the definition used by the UNDP human development is analysed as covering human capital education and health and purchasing power In this book the concept of human capital is broadened to include freedom from fear health education and migration The first part of the book discusses the economic situation in Indonesia The second elaborates on what happened to human capital during the crisis and the third part examines its effects on purchasing power Because human development does not occur in a vacuum the fourth part discusses some emerging issues in Indonesia The book concludes with some thoughts on people centred development which may contribute to more sustainable development than the development concept that simply pursues high economic growth With this people centred development growth rates of about 3 to 4 per cent are adequate as long as Indonesia achieves success in human development
