danger of losing our identities as unique beings created in the image of God Our culture not wanting to answer to a higher authority tries to expel God from the planet but in the process strips off the very image that makes us human If we officiate at the death of God we will also be forced to preside over the funeral of man The good news is that despite the loud voices declaring that we are just evolved animals the vast majority of us behave as if we are special Since the characteristics that make humans unique are found nowhere else on the planet we are compelled to look to the heavens We have a choice we can find significance running with the pack or in becoming children of God We can howl at the moon or offer prayers to our Father but either way we will end up worshiping our maker Dr Strandness explores what it means to be created in the image of God by examining those qualities that are universally recognized as unique to humankind He makes the case that these characteristics have a heavenly origin and can only be adequately explained by a Biblical understanding of humans as God's image bearers David Lynch and the American West Rob E. Lynch's most recent Lost Highway Nochimson's interpretations explode previous misconceptions of Lynch as a deviant filmmaker and misogynist. Instead she shows how he subverts traditional Hollywood gender roles to offer an optimistic view that love and human connection are really possible. Nochimson deftly deploys a mixture of feminist criticism, the Bakhtinian notion of the carnivalesque, and an intriguing blend of Jungian and Freudian concepts to make one of our most complex filmmakers seem quite accessible after all. Theatres of Memory Raphael Samuel, 2012-09-11

When Theatres of Memory was first published in 1994 it transformed the debate about what is to be considered history and questioned the role of heritage that lies at the heart of every Western nation's obsession with the past. Today in the age of Downton Abbey and Mad Men we are once again conjuring historical fictions to make sense of our everyday lives. In this remarkable book Samuel looks at the many different ways we use the unofficial knowledge of the past. Considering such varied areas as the fashion for retrofitting the rise of family history, the joys of collecting old photographs, the allure of reenactment societies and televised adaptations of Dickens, Samuel transforms our understanding of the uses of history. He shows us that history is a living practice, something constantly being reassessed in the world around us. The Cultural Construction of London's East End Paul Newland, 2008

Paul Newland's illuminating study explores the ways in which London's East End has been constituted in a wide variety of texts: films, novels, poetry, television, shows, newspapers, and journals. Newland argues that an idea or image of the East End, which developed during the late nineteenth century, continues to function in the twenty-first century as an imaginative space in which continuing anxieties continue to be worked through concerning material progress and modernity, rationality and irrationality, ethnicity and Otherness, class and its related systems of behaviour. The Cultural Construction of London's East End offers detailed examinations of the ways in which the East End has been constructed in a range of texts, including BBC Television's EastEnders, Monica Ali's Brick Lane, Walter Besant's All Sorts and Conditions of Men, Thomas Burke's Limehouse Nights, Peter Ackroyd's Hawksmoor, films such as Piccadilly Sparrows, Can't Sing The Long Good Friday, From Hell, The Elephant Man, and Spider, and in the work of Iain Sinclair.
