Chambers's papers for the people Chambers W. and R., ltd, 1851 Our Paper ,1919 The Newspaper Press Alexander Andrews, 1867 Law and Governance in an Enlarged European Union George A. Bermann, Katharina Pistor, 2004-11-10 This book's principal aim is to critically address the institutional and substantive legal issues resulting from European enlargement chiefly those relating to the legal foundations on which the enlarged Union is being built The accession of new Member States creates the potential for a stronger and more powerful Europe Realising this potential however will depend on the ability of the EU to develop functional and effective governance structures both at the European level and at the level of the individual Member States While the acquis communautaire will ensure that formal laws in the new Member States will be aligned with those of existing members the question remains as to how effective institutions will be in implementing changes and what effects the imposed changes will have on the legitimacy of the new legal framework This book containing the work of leading scholars in law and social sciences examines the current and future legal framework for EU governance and the role that new members will or will not play in the creation of that framework paying particular attention to the specific challenges membership in the EU poses to the acceding states of Central and Eastern Europe It is a book which will contribute to and influence debates over constitutionalism and legal harmonisation in the EU

Making Minorities History Matthew James Frank, 2017 Making Minorities History examines the various attempts made by European states over the course of the first half of the twentieth century under the umbrella of international law and in the name of international peace and reconciliation to rid the Continent of its ethnographic misfits and problem populations It is principally a study of the concept of population transfer the idea that in order to construct stable and homogeneous nation states and a peaceful international order out of them national minorities could be relocated en masse in an orderly way with minimal economic and political disruption as long as there was sufficient planning bureaucratic oversight and international support in place Tracing the rise and fall of the concept from its emergence in the late 1890s through its 1940s zenith and its geopolitical and historiographical afterlife during the Cold War Making Minorities History explores the historical context and intellectual milieu in which population transfer developed from being initially regarded as a marginal idea propagated by a handful of political fantasists and extreme nationalists into an acceptable and a progressive instrument of state policy as amenable to bourgeois democracies and Nobel Peace Prize winners as it was to authoritarian regimes and fascist dictators In addition to examining the planning and implementation of population transfers and in particular the diplomatic negotiations surrounding them Making Minorities History looks at a selection of different proposals for the resettlement of minorities that came from individuals organizations and states during this era of population transfer Technological Transformation in the Global Pulp and Paper Industry 1800-2018 Timo Särkkä, Miquel Gutiérrez-Poch, Mark Kuhlberg, 2018-10-24 This contributed volume provides 11 illustrative case studies of technological transformation in the global pulp and paper industry from the inception of mechanical papermaking in early nineteenth century Europe until its recent developments in today's business environment with rapidly changing market dynamics and consumer behaviour. It deals with the relationships between technology transfer, technology leadership, raw material dependence and product variety on a global scale. The study itemises the main drivers in technology transfer that affected this process, including the availability of technology, knowledge investments and raw materials on the one hand, and demand characteristics on the other hand, within regional, national and transnational organisational frameworks. The volume is intended as a basic introduction to the history of papermaking technology and it is aimed at students and teachers as course material and as a handbook for professionals working in either industry, research centres or universities. It caters to graduate audiences in forestry, business, technical sciences and history.

John Sullivan Dwight, 2021-10-28 Reprint of the original first published in 1867 Ireland in Early Medieval Europe Dorothy Whitelock, Rosamond McKitterick, David Dumville, 1982-07-08 This 1982 collection of essays examines Ireland's relations with the rest of western Europe between AD 400 and 1200. They show the idiosyncratic ways in which Ireland responded to external stimuli and illustrate the view that early Irish history, religion, politics and art should be seen not in isolation but as vital contributors to the development of European culture. This was the firmly held opinion of Kathleen Hughes, to whose memory these essays, specially commissioned from leading scholars in the field, are dedicated. The range of essays reflects the diversity of early Ireland's history and the extent of her influence upon other cultures. The ecclesiastical tradition and hagiography form one area of study; political expansion and diplomatic history, as well as literary and artistic influences, are also discussed. The subjects are variously introduced as they affect Ireland's relations with Scotland, Anglo-Saxon England, Merovingian Gaul, the Scandinavians and the Welsh.

The Royal Italian Opera and the "Athenæum" Newspaper. [A Correspondence Between F. Gye, Manager of Covent Garden Theatre, and the Editor of the "Athenæum," on Certain Statements in that Paper Concerning the Performances at Covent Garden.], 1875 Chambers's Papers for the People William Chambers, 1851 A Comparative History of the Literary Draft in Europe Olga Beloborodova, Dirk Van Hulle, 2024-11-15

Literary drafts are a constant in literatures of all ages and linguistic areas and yet their role in writing processes in various traditions has seldom been the subject of systematic comparative scrutiny. In 38 chapters written by leading experts in many different fields, this book charts a comparative history of the literary draft in Europe and beyond. It is organised according to eight categories of comparison distributed over the volume's two parts devoted respectively to Text i.e. the textual aspects of creative processes and Beyond Text i.e. aspects of creative processes that are not necessarily textual.

Across geographical temporal linguistic generic and media boundaries to name but a few this book uncovers idiosyncrasies and parallels in the surviving traces of human creativity while drawing the reader s attention to the materiality of literary drafts and the ephemerality of the writing process they capture
