Embers Terry Wolverton,2003 Embers Maurine Hathaway,1910 Embers John Myers O'Hara,2017-08-25

Embers Maurine Hathaway,2017 My poems are my children and I have not breathed them to please They are born of my fancy guided each by its own pre natal impulse Of the reader I ask only the indulgence granted the mother loving her own It may be that here and there a thought may find welcome lodgment in some kindred heart that a line may breathe a smile to saddened lips if this may be I shall be glad for I have given these lines from my deepest soul Where pathos is found you may believe my heart was burdened if written in merry vein the sunlight guided my pen Each poem tells its story of life as life was then I give you my children if censure comes pray let it come to me not them Page 3 Saints of Hysteria David Trinidad,Denise Duhamel,Maureen Seaton,2007-03-06 Collaborative poetry poems written by one or more people grew out of word games played by French surrealists in the 1920s It was taken up a decade later by Japan s Vou Club and then by Charles Henri Ford who created the chainpoem composed by poets who mailed their lines all over the world After WW II the Beat writers collaborative experiments resulted in the famous Pull My Daisy The concept was embraced in the 1970s by feminist poets as a way to find a collective female voice Yet for all its rich history virtually no collections of collaborative poetry exist This exhilarating anthology remedies the omission Featured are poems by two four even as many as 18 people in a dizzying array of forms villanelles to ghazals sonnets to somonkas pantoums to haiku even quizzes questionnaires and other nonliterary forms Collaborators notes accompany many of the poems giving a fascinating glimpse into the creative process
