- ◆ Carl von Clausewitz prophesied the emergence of "total war," but most historians regard the First World War as the first "total war" for these four reasons:
  1. Economic: industrial warfare by huge conscript armies demanded the reorganization of the whole economy.
  2. Psychological: combat became utterly terrifying, with a killing zone over 5 miles deep; "shell shock" became a major source of casualties.
  3. Social psychological: massive propaganda campaigns demonized the enemy in each country.
  4. Ethical: hunger blockades, bombardments, and anti-partisan actions broke down the distinction between combatants & noncombatants.

In 1916 combat reached maximum intensity in the Battles of Verdun & the Somme, and the Brusilov Offensive....

Mulligan,2004-11-01 Civil military relations have been a consistent theme of the history of the Weimar Republic This study focuses on the career of General Walther Reinhardt the last Prussian Minister of War and the First Head of the Army Command in the Weimar Republic Though less well known than his great rival Hans von Seeckt Reinhardt s role in forming the young Reichswehr and his writings on warfare made him one of the most important and influential military figures in interwar Germany Contrary to the conventional view that civil military relations were fraught from the outset the author argues Reinhardt s contribution to the military politics of the Weimar Republic shows that opportunities for reform and co operation with civilian leaders existed However although he is primarily seen as a liberal General this study demonstrates that he was motivated by professional military considerations and by the specter of a future war His ideas on modern warfare
