Space, Place and Scale in the Study of Education Lorraine Symaco, Colin Brock, 2017-10-02 The term space is inherently geographical Educational provision and activity takes place within spaces ranging from a room at home or in a school to a campus to an administrative area which could be a state within a country a whole country or a group of countries Such spaces are known as geographical surfaces Within these spaces the process of learning and teaching takes place at particular points that are often nodes in a network which may be formal such as a group of schools or universities or non formal such as in cyberspace Understanding what goes on depends on the scale at which it is observed ranging from individuals to global outreach Altogether this constitutes the geography of educational reality This comprehensive volume includes a theoretical background plus a sample of situations including school level policy and administration inequitable access education hubs and small states It offers an introduction to a relatively neglected member of the family of education foundation disciplines the geography of education This book was originally published as a special issue of Comparative Education

Education in Small States Peter Mayo, 2013-09-13 This book focuses on education in small states It examines the strengths and weaknesses of different aspects of educational provision in political jurisdictions having a very small population populations which encounter specific challenges threats and opportunities This book presents a balance in regional representation covering the South Pacific the Caribbean Africa Europe and the Mediterranean The contributions pay particular attention to basic education higher education entrepreneurship training post primary education and the impact of globalization on educational restructuring and aid delivery in specific small state regions This book was published as a special issue of the Comparative Education

Guthrie, 2003 Tertiary Education in Small States Michaela Martin, Mark Bray, Unesco, 2011 Small states have in common a number of challenges and opportunities including in the domain of tertiary education They face particular constraints in the organization of tertiary education because of their limited pools of highly qualified human resources and the difficulties in achieving economies of scale in administration and management In many small states the tertiary sector has undergone considerable change Enrollments have grown rapidly the institutional fabric has been diversified and technology based and networked models have been developed Small states have also been part of expanded crossborder provision This publication takes stock of recent reforms in the tertiary education of selected small states It presents regional and national experiences from different development contexts The book concludes with a discussion of policy issues including sustainable funding and technological solutions to overcome the constraints of small states Resources in Education, 1998 Accountability in education: meeting our commitments UNESCO, 2017-10-30 The second edition of the Global Education Monitoring Report GEM Report presents the latest evidence on global progress towards the education targets of the UN Sustainable Development Goals With hundreds of millions of people still not going to school and many not achieving minimum skills at school it is clear education systems are off track to achieve global goals The marginalized currently bear the most consequences but also stand to benefit the most if policy makers pay sufficient attention to their needs Faced with these challenges along with tight budgets and increased emphasis on results oriented value for money countries are searching for solutions Increased accountability often tops the list The 2017 8 GEM Report shows the entire array of approaches to accountability in education It ranges from countries unused to the concept where violations of the right to education go unchallenged to countries where accountability has become an end in itself instead of a means to inclusive equitable and high quality education and lifelong learning for all The report emphasizes that education is a shared responsibility While governments have primary responsibility all actors schools teachers parents students international organizations private sector providers civil society and the media 0 3 have a role in improving education systems The report emphasized the importance of transparency and availability of information but urges caution in how data are used It makes the case for avoiding accountability systems with a disproportionate focus on narrowly defined results and punitive sanctions In an era of multiple accountability tools the report provides clear evidence on those that are working and those that are not Back cover Research in Education ,1974 Energy policy
