V. Gipps,Harvey Goldstein,1983 Education Quality and Social Justice in the Global South Leon Tikly,Angeline M. Barrett,2013-06-07 How we understand education quality is inextricably linked with perspectives on social justice Questions of inclusion relevance and democracy in education are increasingly contested most especially in the global South and improving the quality of education particularly for the most disadvantaged has become a topic of fundamental concern for education policy makers practitioners and the international development community The reality experienced by many learners continues to be of inadequately prepared and poorly motivated teachers struggling to deliver a rapidly changing curriculum without sufficient support and often using outmoded teaching methods in over crowded or dilapidated classrooms Education Quality and Social Justice in the South includes contributions from leading scholars in the field of education and development The text draws upon state of the art evidence from the five year EdQual research programme which focuses upon raising achievement in low income countries and demonstrates how systems of high quality universal education can be sustained By exploring recent research initiatives to improve education quality the importance of supporting local policy makers educators and parents as agents of change and students as active inquirers is highlighted and the challenge of taking successful initiatives to scale is explained The book is divided into three main parts Framing Education Quality Planning and Policies for Quality Implementing Quality in Schools Education Quality and Social Justice in the South argues that implementing a high quality of education using theories of social justice can inform the understanding of inclusion relevance and democracy in education The book should be essential reading for both students and researchers within the fields of international and comparative education along with educational policy poverty and development studies An Archaeology of Educational Evaluation Emiliano Grimaldi,2019-08-16 An Archaeology of Educational Evaluation Epistemological Spaces and Political Paradoxes outlines the epistemology of the theories and models that are currently employed to evaluate educational systems education policy educational professionals and students learning It discusses how those theories and models find their epistemological conditions of possibility in a specific set of conceptual transferences from mathematics and statistics political economy biology and the study of language The book critically engages with the epistemic dimension of contemporary educational evaluation and is of theoretical and methodological interest. It uses Foucauldian archaeology as a problematising method of inquiry within the wider framework of governmentality studies. It goes beyond a mere critique of the contemporary obsession for evaluation and attempts to replace it with the opening of a free space where the search for a mode of being acting and thinking in education is not over determined by the tyranny of improvement. This book will appeal to academics, researchers and postgraduate students in the fields of educational philosophy, education policy and social science.

International Perspectives in Educational Effectiveness Research James Hall, Ariel Lindorff, Pamela Sammons, 2020-08-10. This edited volume explores questions about what works, how, for whom, when and why in education and considers how and to what extent such knowledge can be understood and extended across countries and different educational systems. The book starts by presenting an overview of the history of educational effectiveness research and offers examples of current theories of educational effectiveness. Next, it provides exemplars of effectiveness studies that report on educational systems, policies and practices from across six continents. These studies vary in their research methods and outcomes, illustrating a field of research that is conscious of its origins, its agenda and its ambition to understand and improve the functioning of schools, networks and education systems around the world. The book brings these threads together within the final chapter and uses them to signpost directions for future research.

International Perspectives in Educational Effectiveness Research is an excellent and timely addition to the educational effectiveness literature. It offers a rigorous and insightful range of international perspectives that will be of interest to researchers, policy makers and students of the field. Professor Christopher Chapman, University of Glasgow, UK, President Elect of the International Congress for School Effectiveness and Improvement.

This important new volume brings up to date the contributions of educational effectiveness research to the development of policy and practice in the field over the last 50 years. Drawing together the ideas of many of the major researchers in the field, it provides a comprehensive analysis of these earlier contributions, leading to critical commentaries that point to areas for future attention. The editors make use of expertise from a range of disciplines to strengthen the themes that are addressed. Most importantly, the book emphasises the need to pay greater attention to the challenge of equity, arguably the most significant challenge facing education systems internationally. In this respect, a particular strength of the book is the accounts provided from many different parts of the world. These underline the importance of context, a factor often previously overlooked in this field of research. Given all of this, I have no doubt that International Perspectives in Educational Effectiveness Research will become a major source for practitioners, policy makers and researchers.
