A Guide to Supporting Breastfeeding for the Medical Profession Amy Brown, Wendy Jones, 2019-12-05 This book is a practical guide for medical practitioners as they navigate through breastfeeding problems that occur in day to day practice If mothers have a breastfeeding complication they are often directed to their GP In complex situations medical staff will be making decisions around what treatment plan to follow and whether a mother can keep breastfeeding In recent years there has been growing evidence that medical professionals often advise mothers to stop breastfeeding while undergoing treatment when in reality this was not a necessary step. In a time when breastfeeding rates are decreasing it is important that medical professionals give accurate advice and support a mother's choice to breastfeed if the situation allows it. A Guide to Supporting Breastfeeding for the Medical Profession includes contributions from a wide range of medical professionals and each chapter is written with the practitioner in mind. Contributors include GPs, paediatricians, neonatologists, lactation specialists and midwives. Doctors have a vital role to play in supporting and facilitating breastfeeding and without the appropriate knowledge they can often inadvertently sabotage it. This book will be of interest to GPs and paediatricians as well as nurse prescribers, midwives and health visitors.

Evolution, Biodiversity and a Reassessment of the Hygiene Hypothesis Graham A. W. Rook, Christopher A. Lowry, 2022-03-24. This edited collection of 12 chapters by research workers from a wide range of disciplines resolves the confusion that currently surrounds the hygiene hypothesis by considering the human need for exposure to microorganisms from an evolutionary point of view. The book explains why we evolved a requirement for exposure to microbiota from our mothers, from other people and from the natural environment. It also explains the physiological roles of these exposures, what goes wrong when the exposures are distorted and how human lifestyles and activities including degradation of the natural environment are leading to this distortion. Particular attention is given to the range of pathologies associated with inappropriate microbial exposures and inappropriate colonization, including immunoregulatory problems such as allergies and autoimmunity, metabolic problems such as obesity and diabetes and problems of central nervous system function and neurodegeneration. This book is of profound relevance to most medical disciplines but also to those concerned with preserving the natural environment and with developing healthier urbanisation
