Cheung, 1997 Education agency and school staff are legally and ethically responsible for safeguarding student information In addition to federal and state laws and regulations education agencies need policies and procedures to guide their everyday information maintenance operations This document provides examples of policies and procedures as well as guidelines for deciding what is needed to ensure the privacy of student information Section 1 provides an overview of the issues and discusses important concepts and terminology used throughout the document Section 2 describes federal laws protecting the privacy of students that have implications for the maintenance and release of student data by state and local education agencies The third section describes appropriate procedures for collecting individual information about students Section 4 explains the management controls and policies needed to maintain and use data within the agency or school. It also addresses the issue of assessing who in an agency or school has a legitimate educational interest in specific information about an individual student. The fifth section describes procedures for providing access to a student's education record by the eligible student or the parent. The final section suggests procedures for handling external requests to release information from individual school records. The appendices contain the text of key federal rules and regulations. A topical index, summary, an index of commonly asked questions, and 22 exhibits are included. Each section includes references, an overview, commonly asked questions, and guidelines. LMI

Student Data Privacy Linnette Attai, 2020-08-01 How do education institutions protect student data privacy while working with technology providers? Often times the work is clouded by a good deal of fear and uncertainty. In Student Data Privacy: Managing Vendor Relationships, Linnette Attai leverages her decades of experience working with technology providers and education institutions to provide the guidance education technology providers can use to manage their privacy responsibilities from a position of strength. Understand how defining your own data privacy and security requirements is the best pathway to creating actionable requirements for technology companies. Learn how to build collaborative partnerships with technology companies without compromising on data privacy. Leverage company knowledge to improve your own data protection program and sharpen your negotiating skills so you can move ahead with the privacy requirements you need solidly in place. In doing so, you'll be on the right path to identifying the technology provider practices that are the right fit for your organization and for the students and parents you serve.

Forum Guide to the Privacy of Student Information National Center for Education Statistics (ED), Washington, DC., 2006 The Forum Guide to the Privacy of Student Information: A Resource for Schools was written to help school and local education agency staff better understand and apply The Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA), a federal law that protects privacy interests of parents and students in student education records. The Forum has developed full reports on student and staff privacy guidance, but a shorter document was needed to provide a quick overview and links to other resources when more information is needed. This guide defines terms such as education records and directory information and offers guidance for developing appropriate privacy policies and information disclosure procedures related to military recruiting, parental rights, and annual notification. Videotaping, online information, media releases, surveillance cameras, and confidentiality concerns related specifically to health-related information are appended. Appendix 1: Key Terms and Definitions; Appendix 2: References and Other Resources. This guide was produced by the National Forum on Education Statistics.
