Education Arts And Morality Creative Journeys:

Education, Arts, and Morality Doris B. Wallace, 2006-01-27 Inspired by Howard Gruber's Evolving Systems Approach these studies explore creativity in several domains The idea that the creative person embodies a system of loosely coupled sub systems knowledge purpose and affect that work together is viewed here in different chapters that explore this concept These include autobiographies of incarcerated youth curricula for moral and civic responsibility changing attitudes of readers to text romance novels as well as case studies of highly creative individuals such as George Bernard Shaw Gruber's approach provides concepts as well as methodological tools which the authors apply to diverse creative processes This book is a valuable resource for undergraduate as well as graduate level students interested in creativity development and education In addition to the intrinsic interest of each chapter the guiding theme of the book is the underlying theory of creativity Gruber's Evolving Systems Approach and illustrates the unusual breadth and flexibility of that theory Handbook of Research Methods on Creativity Viktor Dörfler, Marc Stierand, 2020-07-31 This Handbook offers an insightful journey through the landscape of research methods used to study the phenomenon of creativity Offering a methodological panorama for the global community of creativity researchers contributors provide markers and waypoints to better orient scholars and encourage reflection on how one might produce exceptional research on the burgeoning field of creativity

Multidisciplinary Approaches to Art Learning and Creativity Karen Knutson, Takeshi Okada, Kevin Crowley, 2020-09-02 This book explores learning in the arts and highlights ways in which art and creativity can ignite learning in schools informal learning spaces and higher education The focus is on learning in with and through the arts Written from a range of international perspectives Multidisciplinary Approaches to Art Learning and Creativity draws upon the fields of cognitive science art education technology and digital arts the learning sciences and museum studies to explore the theoretical underpinnings of artistic creativity and inspiration and provide empirical explorations of mechanisms that support learning in the arts Critical factors that help to facilitate the creative process are considered and chapters highlight connections between research and practice in art learning This volume offers a rich variety of positions and projects which underpin creativity in schools museums and other venues An illustrative text for researchers and educators in the arts Multidisciplinary Approaches to Art Learning and Creativity demonstrates how artistic ways of thinking and working with artists empower art learners and support their needs and opportunities across the lifespan Heinz Werner and Developmental Science Jaan Valsiner, 2006-11-22 Heinz Werner 1890 1964 was one of the three key developmental psychologists of the 20th century along with Jean Piaget and Lev Vygotsky This book is a new exploration of Werner's ideas and their social contexts in Vienna in his student years in Hamburg up to 1933 followed by the years of transit as an immigrant to America at times of economic depression finally culminating in his establishment of the prominent Clark tradition in American psychology in the 1950s The book offers an in depth analysis of Werner's ideas as they were originally formulated in Vienna and Hamburg and how they were changed by North American influences Werner's pivotal role between European and American intellectual traditions is illuminated through the use of rich memories of his former students unique documents from Werner's personal library at Clark and analyses of links with other European traditions in philosophy and biological sciences The European period prior to 1933 in Werner's academic life is found to be definitive for Werner's contributions to science The ideas developed in his early career continued in the form of a productive empirical research program in the 1950s at Clark An analysis of the social intellectual climate of the development of psychology in America in the 1950s is a special feature of this book that will further enhance an understanding of Werner's unique contribution This book will be of interest to developmental psychologists sociologists and historians of science philosophers practitioners working in special education and neuropsychology and for general readers interested in the history of ideas and life courses of scientists

Worldmaking: Psychology and the Ideology of Creativity Michael Hanchett Hanson, 2015-10-05 Michael Hanchett Hanson weaves together the history of the development of the psychological concepts of creativity with social constructivist views of power dynamics and pragmatic insights He provides an engaging thought provoking analysis to interest anyone involved with creativity from psychologists and educators to artists and philosophers

The Paradox of Creativity in Art Education Kerry Thomas, 2019-07-29 This book examines the paradox of creativity in art education and proposes a possible resolution Based on the findings of a longitudinal ethnographic study as a particular case of creative practice in art education this book is underpinned by Bourdieu's concepts of the habitus symbolic capital and misrecognition The author offers an insightful account of social reasoning within creative practice in the senior school art classroom examining ongoing exchanges between students and their teacher Ultimately these exchanges culminate in actions beliefs and desires about what is creatively conceivable in the making of art while providing confirmation without corruption of the pedagogical role of the art teacher Allowing the context of creative agency to emerge afresh this book will be of interest and value to art educators and teachers committed to fostering the creative performances of students in any field

Interpersonal Understanding in Historical Context , 2009-01-01 Understanding students historical understanding is a complex and challenging endeavour for history teachers as well as for researchers from diverse fields Since historical situations contain interpersonal and social issues that happened in the past not only history educators are interested in how students understand them Also psychologists and educational scientists aim to gain knowledge how students deal with interpersonal issues in the context of history The present book shows in which way historical understanding can be viewed as interpersonal understanding and gives indications for the limitation of an interpersonal approach regarding historical situations. The different contributions of this volume give insight into an interdisciplinary discussion about how the fields of social and historical thinking are interrelated with respect to educational issues and challenges. This book confirms the impression of an increase in empirical work in the domain of history education. The authors present empirical approaches from the fields of history education, developmental psychology and educational science using different theoretical and methodical means and thus contribute to a larger picture of what teaching and learning history at school is about.

The Self-Marginalization of Wilhelm Stekel Jaap Bos, Leendert Groenendijk, 2007-01-05. As both an early disciple of and influence on Freud, Wilhelm Stekel enjoyed a unique position within the analytic movement. More recently, he has been notable more for his ostracism from Freud's sphere and little else. The Self-Marginalization of Wilhelm Stekel brings a fresh perspective on Stekel, revealing the complex symbiotic bond between mentor and follower in its many social, interpersonal and psychological forms. In addition to shedding light on a famous outsider, this biography is set in a dual context of the formative years of psychoanalysis and Freud's relationships with his colleagues; comparisons and contrasts abound with Adler, Jung and other revered exiles from Freudian circles. At the same time, each chapter defines and identifies a particular aspect of the marginalization process, including self-marginalization, the relationship of marginals to the mainstream and the value of marginalization in the construction of identity. In all, this book will provide an in-depth look into the social history of psychoanalysis, an informed rethinking of Stekel's contributions as theorist and clinician, a new view of marginalization as differentiated from similar social phenomena, previously unpublished correspondence between Freud and Stekel, a new translation of Stekel's 1926 essay On the History of the Analytical Movement. The Self-Marginalization of Wilhelm Stekel peels back layers of history to create a singular addition to our knowledge of the origins of psychoanalysis. Psychologists, social scientists and readers interested in the history of science will find this book an illuminating glimpse into the lives and legacies of the first psychoanalysts.

Shaw MaryAnn Krajnik Crawford, Gale K. Larson, 2005. SHAW 25 offers eighteen articles, thirteen initially presented at the International Shaw Society conference, 17-21 March 2004, Sarasota, Florida. Additional conference and Shaw Festival Symposia information is provided in the Introduction. Stanley Weintraub's conference keynote Shaw for the Here and Now considers modernizing Shaw's plays, validating Shaw's creative force for today and into the future. Dan H. Laurence's delightful Shaw's Children shows a warm, caring, playful Shaw, a giver of self. Howard Ira Einsohn's article on gifting brings together Shaw, Ricoeur and Derrida to explore the ethics of giving superabundantly but not foolishly. Jay Tunney reflects on the ways in which his father, boxer Gene Tunney, fits the personal and professional shoes of Shaw's Cashel Byron, with life imitating art. In Machiavelli, the Shark and the Tinpot Tragedienne, Bernard F. Dukore delivers a rereading of Major Barbara that highlights characters and traits revealing an ensnaring web of beliefs, values, actions and consequences. Sidney P. Albert's essay explores connections between Major Barbara and Plato's Constructivist Education in an Age of Accountability David W. Kritt, 2018-01-16 This book contrasts authentic approaches to education with classroom practices based primarily on standards external to the individuals who are supposed to learn While other books tend to promote either a desperate scramble for meeting standards or determined resistance to neoliberal reforms this book fills that gap in ways that will inspire practitioners prospective teachers and teacher educators Mandates pay only lip service to constructivist and social constructivist principles while thwarting the value of both students and teachers actively creating understandings Authors in this book assert the central importance of a range of constructivist approaches to teaching learning and thinking inviting careful reflection on the goals and values of education

New Feminism in China Jiaran Zheng, 2016-03-25 This book is based on rich empirical data and findings concerning the lives perceptions and ambitions of young middle class female graduates thus providing essential insights into the lives and viewpoints of a previously unresearched group in China from a feminist scholarly perspective The study shows how the lives of young women and debates over youthful femininity lie at the very heart of modern Chinese history and society With a central focus on women's issues the book's ultimate goal is to enable Western readers to better understand the changing ideologies and the overall social domain of China under the leadership of President Xi The empirical data presented includes interviews and group discussions as well as illustrations tables and images collected during a prolonged period of fieldwork The insights shared here will facilitate cross cultural communication with both Western feminist academics and readers who are sensitive to different cultures
