Feagans, Elizabeth J. Short, Lynne Vernon-Feagans, Lynn J. Meltzer, 2012-11-12 Although experts agree that various types of learning disabilities do exist few attempts have been made to classify learning disabled children into subtypes The editors of this collection feel that the lack of subcategorization has frustrated previous research efforts to obtain a generalizable body of knowledge in the field To meet this critical need for definitive information this book presents basic reviews and theoretical approaches used to subtype learning disabled children ranging from a behavior genetics approach to a dimensional approach It also demonstrates actual research methods utilizing theoretical approaches

M. Mustafa, Aiswarya Mohandas, 2017 Learning and Learning Difficulties Peter Westwood, 2013-05-24 This text explores a number of different perspectives and theories on human learning and motivation The author gives significant attention to different types of learning across the curriculum and examines effective types of teaching to facilitate different forms of learning Detailed consideration is given to factors that contribute to common learning problems in school and many practical suggestions are provided for preventing or overcoming some of these difficulties Executive Function in Education, First Edition Lynn Meltzer, 2011-03-17 This uniquely integrative book brings together research on executive function processes from leaders in education neuroscience and psychology It focuses on how to apply current knowledge to assessment and instruction with diverse learners including typically developing children and those with learning difficulties and developmental disabilities The role of executive function processes in learning is examined and methods for identifying executive function difficulties are reviewed Chapters describe scientifically grounded models for promoting these key cognitive capacities at the level of the individual child the classroom and the entire school Implications for teaching particular content areas reading writing and math are also discussed

Associations between Reading and Mathematics: Genetic, Brain Imaging, Cognitive and Educational Perspectives Sarit Ashkenazi, Orly Rubinsten, Bert De Smedt, 2017-10-05 Converging evidence demonstrates a strong link between reading and mathematics multiple cognitive processes are shared between reading and mathematics including the representation and retrieval of symbolic information attention working memory and cognitive control Additionally multiple brain networks are involved in both math and reading and last common genetic factors might influence both reading and math Hence it comes as no surprise that there are meaningful associations between aspects of math and reading abilities Moreover comorbidity rates between math learning disabilities MD and reading disabilities RD are high up to 66% and prevalence rate of the comorbid condition is reported to be more common than the prevalence rate of isolated math learning disabilities Accordingly the goal of the research topic is to explore the underline mechanisms of this overlap between reading and math The research topic aims to include the following topics Genetics it has been found that both RD and MD are based on genetic factors and run in families Moreover math problem solving shares significant genetic overlap with general cognitive ability and reading decoding whereas math fluency shares significant genetic overlap with reading fluency and general cognitive ability Hence this topic will explore the shared and unique genetic risk factors to RD and MD In addition to shared and unique genetic influence on reading and math Neural perspective converging evidence from both structural and multiple functional imaging studies involving a wide range of numerical tasks points to the intraparietal sulcus IPS as a core region that involve in quantity manipulation However several additional brain areas such as frontoparietal and temporoparietal areas were found to be involved in numerical tasks Individuals with MD show deficits in a distributed set of brain regions that include the IPS fusiform gyrus in posterior brain regions and pre frontal cortex regions Similarly converging evidence indicate that the left hemisphere regions centered in the fusiform gyrus temporoparietal cortex and pre frontal cortex regions are strongly involve in typical reading and present lower activity connectivity or abnormal structure in RD Thus there is a meaningful neural overlap between reading and math Hence the authors can submit empirical studies on the role of several of brain regions that are involved in math and reading commonality and diversity both in the typical and a typical development Cognitive factors that play role in mathematics and reading and comorbidity between RD and MD There is a long lasting debate whether MD and RD originate from unique cognitive mechanisms or not Multiple cognitive processes are shared between reading and mathematics Therefore impairments in any one of domain general skills could conceivably play an important role in both pure and comorbid conditions Moreover it has been suggested that phonological processing has a significant role in some aspects of numerical processing such as retrieval of arithmetical facts Education it will be interesting to look at the effect of interventions that aim to improve reading such as phonological awareness and there transfer effect on improving mathematical processing Alternatively it will be good to test whether math interventions will improve reading

The Nature of Learning Disabilities Kenneth A. Kavale, Steven R. Forness, 2012-12-06 The category of learning disabilities continues to be among the most contentious in special education Much of the debate and dissent emanates from a lack of understanding about its basic nature The failure to evolve a comprehensive and unified perspective about the nature of learning disabilities has resulted in the concept being lost The loss is best illustrated through the failure to answer this seemingly simple question What is a learning disability Using historical empirical theoretical conceptual and philosophical analyses this volume explores a number of problems and issues facing the field of learning disabilities The chapters cover historical influences definitional problems primary characteristics assessment practices theoretical development major themes research and measurement models and long term outcomes The goal is to explicate the nature of learning disabilities by analyzing what it was supposed to be what it has become and what it might be A predominant theme running through this text is the necessity for the field of learning disabilities to regain integrity by recapturing its essence

Learning Disabilities Pol Ghesquière, A. J. J. M. Ruijsenaars, 2005 Research on learning disabilities has known a tremendous growth the last 25 years Yet despite the progress that is made in diverse domains learning disabilities still stay a serious challenge to teaching and instruction In this book the authors try to link original research findings on learning disabilities with instructional methods and teaching practices The first part of the book brings together contributions about the cognitive metacognitive and socio emotional correlates of learning disabilities These factors generally form a core aspect of the challenge of learning disabilities to teaching and instruction The first three chapters concern the phenomenon of dyslexia Van den Broeck critically evaluates the disputable role of intelligence in the concept and definition of dyslexia Hutchinson Whiteley and Smith explore the role of cognitive linguistic skills in the early identification of reading problems in emergent bilingual children Van Ingelghem and colleagues study auditory temporal processing in children with dyslexia In chapter 4 Desoete and Roeyers summarize their research on metacognition in children with mathematics learning disabilities Finally Gadeyne Ghesquière and Onghena explore the relationship between academic achievement and behaviour problems The second part of this book goes deeper into research on intervention and instruction methods The first three chapters focus on reading problems Whiteley and her colleagues try to analyze why some children do not benefit from early phonologically based interventions leading to implications for the development of early screening tools and intervention schemes for these non beneficiaries Van Kraaenrood Rohl and Rivalland report findings of an Australian study examining the programs and strategies used to teach and intervene in Australian classrooms for students with learning problems Bouwer and Jordaan argue for the use of imaging as a learning support technique for children with dyslexia The last two chapters explore the differential effect of direct and guided instruction for children with arithmetic learning problems Kroesbergen and Van Luit focus on the acquisition and use of multiplication strategies Milo and Ruijsenaars do the same for addition and subtraction up to 100 After reading this book not all challenges of learning disabilities to teaching and instruction will be tackled But it surely can offer some contribution in getting away from some of them The authors hope it gives a lot of inspiration to the diverse audience we had in mind practitioners as well as researchers of different disciplines
