students to develop their full potential In an effort to draw from the experiences of two other major societies the book also looks at the education systems in Europe and Japan It examines Europe s Bologna Process identifying its advantages and shortcomings as an attempt at standardization It then travels to Japan a country that represents the epitome in terms of standardization It discusses the damage that this over emphasis on standardization has done to Japanese society and especially to the Japanese education system The authors then present an exciting new paradigm of teaching that incorporates computer technology into education This new paradigm allows students to use computer programs to progress at their own rate in subjects they enjoy and excel at while concurrently ensuring that they still get the basics they need to function successfully in society The book details the key logistics of the new paradigm including the way classes are run the way subjects are taught and the way students are graded
