Spirituality in Social Work and Education Janet Groen, Diana Coholic, John R. the tensions that come from including spirituality implicitly or explicitly in the programs and coursework in our respective faculties are illuminated by authors in both professions The final section explores issues related to practising and teaching in the field from a spiritually sensitive perspective Human Behavior and the Social Environment, Macro Level Katherine S. Crisp, Liz Beddoe, 2013-10-18 Social work educators can play an important part in ensuring that the promotion of health and well being is firmly on the social work agenda for service users as well as for students and educators Nevertheless this has not been a priority within social work education and presents a challenge which requires some re thinking in terms of curriculum content pedagogy and how social workers respond to social problems Furthermore if the promotion of health and well being is not considered a priority for social workers this raises important questions about the role and relevance of social work in health and thus poses challenges to social work education both now and in the future This book contains contributions from social work educators from Australia America Canada New Zealand and the UK They reflect on how best to prepare students to put health and well being to the forefront of practice drawing on research on quality of life subjective well being student well being community participation and social connectedness religion and spirituality mindful practices trauma and health inequalities This book is an extended version of a special issue of Social Work Education
