readability Bernd Nuss,2018 Text readability is at the core of successful reading instruction and language learning To counteract the challenges of complex reading content text leveling is a vital necessity for readers with limited language access A transdisciplinary analysis of reading development and linguistic interrelations builds the theoretical foundation of the base 1 method This method focuses solely on structural and functional text elements on the word sentence and cohesion level But this book also discusses the significance of other prevalent readability factors such as the reader s language knowledge or socio cultural background The base 1 method is designed to level early reading texts in German and other alphabetic languages Experimental tests with a German immersion population has led to a preliminary calibration to demonstrate the validity of this approach Bernd Nuss ist erfahrener Immersionslehrer in verschiedenen Programmen die sich ber Nord Zentral und S damerika erstrecken An der E E Waddell Language Academy wirkt er schulintern als Immersion Facilitator kooperiert mit Bildungsorganisationen und betreut die Praktika von Gaststudierenden an der Schule Bernd Nuss has worked as an educator and facilitator in English and German language immersion programs all over the Americas and in Europe In this capacity he has also been collaborating as a researcher with universities and other educational institutions in Europe Asia and the USA Training-induced cognitive and neural plasticity Julia Karbach,Torsten Schubert,2013-07-08

Throughout the entire lifespan individuals are required to adapt to the demands of changing developmental contexts and dynamic social environments The potential modifiability of a person's cognitive and neural processes has been referred to as plasticity One way to assess cognitive and neural plasticity is to apply training interventions and to measure the related changes in trained and untrained situations Over the last decade the literature on the effects of cognitive interventions has been growing rapidly oftentimes focusing on the magnitude scope and maintenance of training related benefits and their transferability to untrained tasks and abilities Recent studies show that plasticity is present across the lifespan although it seems to decline in older age and that the long term maintenance as well as the transferability of training gains strongly depends on the type and the intensity of the intervention The findings from behavioral cognitive training research have also been accompanied by findings from cognitive neuroscience The related observations oftentimes point to training induced changes in a number of cortical and subcortical regions which may be responsible for the magnitude of training and of transfer effects Thus cognitive training may be a promising tool for understanding basic mechanisms of adaptive behavior on the one hand and for designing applications and interventions within different disciplines in psychology on the other hand However not all studies have consistently shown beneficial effects of cognitive training and some questions that are critical for our understanding of plasticity are still unanswered What are the key processes mediating training effects on laboratory tasks and in real world situations Which characteristics of the training process and of the trainings situations mediate transfer effects Are training effects subject to age related changes How are training induced neural changes in the brain related to improvements in cognitive performance How effective are training interventions in patients with specific cognitive impairments To what extent can age related cognitive decline be compensated by means of cognitive training The focus of this Research Topic is on training induced cognitive and neural plasticity across the lifespan The goal is to provide a broad scope of state of the art research in order to enhance our knowledge regarding the mechanisms underlying plasticity We invite contributions applying behavioral computational and neuroscientific approaches reviews and theoretical contributions Contributions are also welcomed if they focus on the implications of cognitive training in applied fields like educational and clinical settings as well as rehabilitation and training science
