The linguistics and language education world has recently experienced a rapidly proliferating interest in applying technology. This interdisciplinary area bridges the gap between two previously separate fields. Innovations and Applications of Technology in Language Education is a collection of 12 chapters by an international group of language and linguistics education experts. Although technology in language education is a global interest, its practices should be contextualized. This book covers how language educational technology is currently applied, discusses how it should be applied, and gives directions for its future development. Providing a critical review of respective current practices and perspectives, this book begins by presenting a set of research-based principles for developing second language teachers' professionalism. It then examines the use of technology to enhance students' English language skills. Acknowledging the advantages and disadvantages of AI-mediated communication, this book argues for the use of AI to facilitate communication in language education. It also proposes the use of AI to develop and administer language tests and suggests guidelines for practitioners to deploy AI in developing and administering language tests efficiently. This book concludes by discussing technology for specific purposes in second language education and the potential of computer-mediated communication (CMC) to enhance interaction between students.

Proceedings of the Joint Conference on Standard Setting for Large-scale Assessments of the National Assessment Governing Board \(NAGB\) and the National Center for Education Statistics \(NCES\): Proceedings, 1995     The Next Generation of Testing Hong Jiao, Robert W. Lissitz, 2015-11-01

The Race To The Top RTTP federal education policy fostered a new generation of state tests. This policy advocated adopting common core standards which set a higher level of learning targets for students in the US K-12 education. These standards are intended to assess higher-order thinking skills and prepare students ready for college and career. In the meantime, they are aligned with those for international assessments which keep US students abreast of their international peers. Furthermore, the new generation of state tests requires the use of technology-enhanced items to align student assessments with the student learning environment. Computer technology is indispensable to accomplish this goal. Computer-based tests related to common core standards are different from previous state computer-based tests in two important aspects: one is that the current version requires accurate assessment of students along all ability levels, and the other is that it promotes the use of an efficient test delivery system, essentially the use of computerized adaptive assessment in K-12 state testing programs. In addition to providing summative information about student learning, the new common core tests add a formative assessment component in the whole assessment system to provide timely feedback to students and teachers during the process of student learning and teacher instruction As with its predecessor the new assessment policy also holds teachers and schools accountable for student learning With the requirements by the new federal education policy states formed two consortia Partnership for Assessment of Readiness for College and Careers PARCC and Smarter Balanced Assessment Consortium SBAC to develop assessments in alignment with the new common core standards This book is based on the presentations made at the Thirteenth Annual Maryland Assessment Research Center s Conference on The Next Generation of Testing Common Core Standards Smarter Balanced PARCC and the Nationwide Testing Movement Experts from the consortia and nationwide overviewed the intention history and the current status of this nationwide testing movement Item development test design and transition from old state tests to the new consortia tests are discussed Test scoring and reporting are specially highlighted in the book The challenges related to standard setting for the new test especially in the CAT environment and linking performance standards from state tests with consortium tests were explored The issues of utilizing the consortium test results to evaluate students college and career readiness is another topic addressed in the book The last chapters address the critical issue of validity in the new generation of state testing programs Overall this book presents the latest status of the development of the two consortium assessment systems It addresses the most challenging issues related to the next generation of state testing programs including development of innovative items assessing higher order thinking skills scoring of such items standard setting and linkage with the old state specific standards and validity issues This edited book provides a very good source of information related to the consortium tests based on the common core standards

Fairness and Validation in Language Assessment Antony John Kunnan,2000-10-12 Fairness of language tests and testing practices has been a concern among test developers and test users The 19th annual Language Testing Research Colloquium held in 1997 in Florida brought this concern into focus The papers in this volume offer an introduction to fairness and validation in the field of language assessment

Technology Enhanced Innovative Assessment Hong Jiao,Robert W. Lissitz,2017-11-01 Assessment innovation tied to technology is greatly needed in a wide variety of assessment applications This book adopts an interdisciplinary perspective to learn from advances in developing technology enhanced innovative assessments from multiple fields The book chapters address the development of virtual assessments including game based assessment simulation based assessment and narrative based assessment as well as how simulation and game based assessments serve both formative and summative purposes Further chapters address the critical challenge of integrating assessment directly into the learning process so that teacher effectiveness and student learning can be enhanced Two chapters specifically address the psychometric challenges related to innovative items One chapter talks about evaluating the psychometric properties of innovative items while the other chapter presents a new psychometric model for calibrating innovative items embedded in multiple contexts In addition validity issues are addressed related to technology enhanced innovative assessment It is hoped that the book provides readers with rich and useful information about the development of
