Expression Marcel Cornis-Pope, 2014-11-15 Begun in 2010 as part of the Histories of Literatures in European Languages series sponsored by the International Comparative Literature Association the current project on New Literary Hybrids in the Age of Multimedia Expression recognizes the global shift toward the visual and the virtual in all areas of textuality the printed verbal text is increasingly joined with the visual often electronic text This shift has opened up new domains of human achievement in art and culture The international roster of 24 contributors to this volume pursue a broad range of issues under four sets of questions that allow a larger conversation to emerge both inside the volume's sections and between them The four sections cover 1 Multimedia Productions in Theoretical and Historical Perspective 2 Regional and Intercultural Projects 3 Forms and Genres and 4 Readers and Rewriters in Multimedia Environments The essays included in this volume are examples of the kinds of projects and inquiries that have become possible at the interface between literature and other media new and old They emphasize the extent to which hypertextual multimedia and virtual reality technologies have enhanced the sociality of reading and writing enabling more people to interact than ever before At the same time however they warn that as long as these technologies are used to reinforce old habits of reading writing they will deliver modest results One of the major tasks pursued by the contributors to this volume is to integrate literature in the global informational environment where it can function as an imaginative partner teaching its interpretive competencies to other components of the cultural landscape

Introduction to Media Production

Gorham Kindem, Robert B. Musburger, PhD, 2012-08-21 Introduction to Media Production began years ago as an alternative text that would cover ALL aspects of media production not just film or just tv or just radio Kindem and Musburger needed a book that would show students how every form of media intersects with one another and about how one needs to know the background history of how film affects video and how video affects working in a studio and ultimately how one needs to know how to put it all together Introduction to Media Production is the book that shows this intersection among the many forms of media and how students can use this intersection to begin to develop their own high quality work Introduction to Media Production is a primary source for students of media Its readers learn about various forms of media how to make the best use of them why one would choose one form of media over another and finally about all of the techniques used to create a media project The digital revolution has exploded all the former techniques used in digital media production and this book covers the now restructured and formalized digital workflows that make all production processes by necessity digital This text will concentrate on offering students and newcomers to the field the means to become aware of the critical importance of understanding the end destination of their production as a part of pre production not the last portion of post production Covering film tv video audio and graphics the fourth edition of Introduction to Digital Media promises to be yet another comprehensive guide for both students of media and newcomers to the media industry

Foster- Cohen, 2014-06-17 This volume introduces the field of child language development studies and presents hypotheses in an accessible largely non technical language aiming to demonstrate the relationship between these hypotheses and interpretations of data It makes the assumption that having a theory of language development is as important as having reliable data about what children say and understand and it advocates a combination of both rationalist and more empiricist traditions In fact the author overtly argues that different traditions provide different pieces of the picture and that taking any single approach is unlikely to lead to productive understanding Susan Foster Cohen explores a range of issues including the nature of prelinguistic communication and its possible relationship to linguistic development early stages of language development and how they can be viewed in the light of later developments the nature and role of children's experience with the language around them variations in language development due to both pathological and non pathological differences between children and in the latter case between the languages they learn later oral language development and literacy The approach is distinctly psycholinguistic and linguistic rather than sociolinguistic although there is significant treatment of issues which intersect with more sociolinguistic concerns e g literacy language play and bilingualism There are exercises and discussion questions throughout designed to reinforce the ideas being presented as well as to offer the student the opportunity to think beyond the text to ideas at the cutting edge of research The accessible presentation of key issues will appeal to the intended undergraduate readership and will be of interest to those taking courses in language development linguistics developmental psychology educational linguistics and speech pathology The book will also serve as a useful introduction to students wishing to pursue post graduate courses which deal with child language development Say It Naturally 2 Allie Patricia Wall, 1998 SAY IT NATURALLY uses a functional notional approach to help students develop communication strategies for interacting verbally within a broad range of American social situations Wide Awake Quidam Green Meyers, 2002-03 Interviews on Enlightenment compiled by Quidam Green Meyers In this revealing text Meyers speaks to some of the West's top spiritual teachers and writers on the topic of Contemporary Awakening Wide Awake reveals that there is no set path for enlightenment yet we are all capable of achieving it Some of the contributors stress that we already are enlightened but have not yet become aware of it Those interviewed include Matthew
