Misers, Shrews, and Polygamists Keith McMahon, 1995 Having multiple wives was one of the mainstays of male privilege during the Ming and Qing dynasties of late imperial China Based on a comprehensive reading of eighteenth century Chinese novels and a theoretical approach grounded in poststructuralist psychoanalytic and feminist criticism Misers Shrews and Polygamists examines how such privilege functions in these novels and provides the first full account of literary representations of sexuality and gender in pre modern China In many examples of rare erotic fiction and in other works as well known as Dream of the Red Chamber Keith McMahon identifies a sexual economy defined by the figures of the miser and the shrew caricatures of the retentive self containing man and the overflowing male enervating woman Among these and other characters the author explores the issues surrounding the practice of polygamy the logic of its overvaluation of masculinity and the nature of sexuality generally in Chinese society How does the man with many wives manage and justify his sexual authority Why and how might he escape or limit this presumed authority sometimes to the point of portraying himself as abject before the shrewish woman How do women accommodate or coddle the man or else oppose undermine or remold him And in what sense does the man place himself lower than the spiritually and morally superior woman The most extensive English language study of Chinese literature from the eighteenth century this examination of polygamy will interest not only students of Chinese history culture and literature but also all those concerned with histories of gender and sexuality

Dimensions of Originality Katharine P Burnett, 2013-03-13 This book investigates the issue of conceptual originality in art criticism of the seventeenth century a period in which China dynamically reinvented itself In art criticism the term which was called upon to indicate conceptual originality more than any other was qi literally different but secondarily odd like a number and by extension the novel and extraordinary This work finds that originality expressed through visual difference was a paradigmatic concern of both artists and critics Burnett speculates on why many have dismissed originality as a possible traditional Chinese value and the ramifications this has had on art historical understanding She further demonstrates that a study of individual key terms can reveal social and cultural values and provides a linear history of the increase in critical use of qi as originality from the fifth through the seventeenth centuries exploring what originality looks like in artworks by members of the gentry elite and commoner classes and explains how the value lost its luster at the end of the seventeenth century

Alienation and the Motif of the Unlived Life in Contemporary Chinese Literature

Birgit Linder, 1998 Fin-de-Siècle Splendor Dewei Wang, 1997 The reigning view of literary historians has been that the May Fourth movement of 1919 marks the division between the traditional and the modern in Chinese literature. This book argues that signs of reform and innovation can be discerned long before May Fourth and that as China entered the arena of modern international history in the late Qing it was already developing its own complex matrix of incipient modernities. It demonstrates that late Qing fiction nurtured a creative innovative poetics one that was spurned by the reformers of the May Fourth generation in favor of Western style realism. The author recognizes that a full account of modern Chinese fiction needs to ask why so many genres styles themes and figures found in late imperial fiction were repressed by modern Chinese literary discourse. He focuses on four genres of late Qing fiction that have been either rudely dismissed in pejorative terms or simply ignored depravity romances court case and chivalric cycles grotesque exposés and scientific fantasies. The author shows that in spite of the realist orthodoxy that has dominated Chinese literature since the May Fourth movement these unwelcome genres have continually found their way back into mainstream discourse their influence being increasingly evident in recent decades. This first comprehensive study of late Qing fiction discusses more than sixty works at least half of which have rarely or never been dealt with by Western or Chinese scholars. Richly informed by contemporary literary theory this book constitutes a polemical rethinking of the nature of Chinese literary and cultural modernity Routledge

Offering an exciting account of the century long process of literary modernization in China the handbook's themes include Modernization of people and writing Realism romanticism and modernist aesthetics Chinese literature on the stage and screen Patriotism war and revolution Feminism liberalism and socialism Literature of reform reflection and experimentation Literature of Taiwan Hong Kong and new media. This handbook provides an integration of biographical narrative with textual analysis maintaining a subtle balance between comprehensive overview and in depth examination. As such it is an essential reference guide for all students and scholars of Chinese literature God's Little Daughters Ji Li, 2015-06-01

God's Little Daughters examines a set of letters written by Chinese Catholic women from a small village in Manchuria to their French missionary Father Lin or Dominique Maurice Pourqui who in 1870 had returned to France in poor health after spending twenty three years at the local mission of the Sociéte des Missions Etrangères de Paris MEP. The letters were from three sisters of the Du family who had taken religious vows and committed themselves to a life of contemplation and worship that allowed them rare privacy and the opportunity to learn to read and write Inspired by a close reading of the letters Ji Li explores how French Catholic missionaries of the MEP translated and disseminated their Christian message in northeast China from the mid 19th to the early 20th centuries and how these converts interpreted and transformed their Catholic faith to articulate an awareness of self The interplay of religious experience rhetorical skill and gender relations revealed in the letters allow us to reconstruct the neglected voices of Catholic women in rural China
