Social Work in Higher Education Karen Lyons, 2019-01-22 First published in 1999 in the light of recent moves towards deprofessionalisation and instrumentalism Karen Lyons has conducted extensive research into the challenges facing social work training as a higher education discipline Here these challenges are located in a discussion of wider changes in both higher education and the personal social services and are also linked to debates about professional education and the nature of knowledge The analysis is based on original data and includes reference to pedagogical and cultural factors and to internal and external policies which might make social work viable or vulnerable in the higher education context This multi disciplinary perspective reflects a characteristic of social work study itself a quality which might be seen as either problematic or as a strength The book concludes that while the future scale and form of the social work subject area lie partly outside the control of social work educators they have a key role to play in the development of the discipline This includes the promotion of research which should underpin the creation of knowledge and inform professional practice in the changing field of personal social services

Transfer of Learning in Professional and Vocational Education Vivienne E Cree, Cathlin Macaulay, 2002-01-04 Combining an accessible presentation of the underlying theory of transfer of learning which explains how to put theory into practice this is a text which is relevant to teaching for transfer in any professional or vocational context The first part of the book looks at what transfer of learning means how it operates the implications for teaching issues such as assessment competence outcomes In the second part contributors present case studies from social work which show how specific teaching methods can be successfully used to make the maximum use of the student's previous experience These include personal construct psychology enquiry and action learning intentional observation critical incident analysis reflective diaries process recording information technology Information on each teaching method is presented in enough detail to allow the educator to go away and use it Broadening Horizons Wanda Thomas Bernard,2017-03-02 While the remit of social work professionals is in general locality based social work has a long tradition of concern about international issues Broadening Horizons provides an engaging and original contribution to the debate on how to tackle social work problems on a global scale Filling both a theoretical and a practice gap in the literature the book discusses the experiences of academics practitioners and students involved in international exchanges in social work It draws on a major EU Canadian exchange project as well as separate projects in countries including South Africa the USA China and Australia The contributors highlight the opportunities and barriers that shaped their experience and give guidance on how to deal with both the practicalities and aspirations of living and working across borders This book will thus be invaluable both to readers interested in the meaning and realities of international social work and to those hoping to embark on an exchange programme themselves Towards a Classless Society? Helen Jones,2005-08-02 An alternative to the right wing paradigm which has hijacked discussions of class this book focuses on the specific ways in which class inequalities manifest themselves in Britain and exposes the hollowness of politicians rhetoric over the classless society

Reflecting on Social Work - Discipline and Profession Karen Lyons,2017-03-02 Social work has always been a contested activity and its status as an academic discipline remains uncertain There is currently renewed interest in the theoretical and research dimensions of social work at a time when significant changes in the broad social political and economic context in which practice takes place require a re evaluation of social work s role and a re examination of its identity This timely book brings together leading social work academics to examine the state of social work at the beginning of the 21st century With their focus on the relationships between research theory and practice they reflect critically on the nature of social work as a discipline in higher education and the importance of this to the profession as a whole The book represents an exploratory conversation among social work academics about the current state and future aspirations of the discipline and the profession It aims to stimulate wider debate about the dominant constraints and opportunities for social work in the 21st century
